Another thing that looks to us like swallowing both the gnat and the camel is the ruling, or law, that women shall not stand up to the bar and take their drinks like a man, but must be served at a table.

The summertime is most generally a quiet time in country newspaper offices insofar as finances is concerned. It is quiet in advertising and quiet in collecting. We pay some one to solicit advertising then pay some one to collect. Sometimes it necessitates several calls of the collector before the account is closed. Do your best if you owe us to pay promptly.

Paul Jones of the Kennett Democrat takes a crack for the employment of a chameleon in one of the key positions in the WPA headquarters in Sikeston. A chameleon is a sort of scorpion or lizzard that changes color to suit the leaf or log that it may be basking on. The political chameleon is one who is a Republican when that party is in power, and a Democrat when that party is in power. Paul failed to call his or her name, therefore we do not know which of the many is the changeling. However, we believe in putting 100 per cent Democrats in key positions under a Democratic setup, and the same under a Republican setup.

Forty thousand pug uglies saw Louis, the negro knock out some foreigner in the first round in a fight at Comiskey Park, Chicago, Wednesday night. The foreigner was yellow and cried for the referee not to let Louis hit him again. Great sport, we don't think.

Many cities in Missouri will have entrants in the beauty contest at the Sedalia Fair to be "Miss Missouri" at the national contest at Atlantic City. It depends very much on the type of judges selected to decide the type of beauty. If the judges be of the sissy type, they may prefer them to be light and lithesome, with grace of the clinging vine type, while if they be of the he-man type with plenty of red blood in their veins, and a venus in a one-piece bathing suit would appear on the stage, all others would be out. Then, if the judges should be of the Grandma type, they would first form their opinion of whether or not the subject knew the rules of bridge, whether they were of the home-loving type, or they had the come-hither look in their eyes. Boy, oh Boy, what a bunch of Grandmothers could do to that galaxy of beauties would be a caution.

TRIALS FOR MEN ACCUSED OF KILLING CARLTON MAY NOT BE HELD THIS TERM

Claude McGee and Lloyd Smith, who are scheduled to be tried during the August term of circuit court for the murder May 8 of W. T. Carlton, will request changes of venue from Scott county defense attorney said this week.

Continuances until the next term of court will be asked for John B. Manor, also charged with Carlton's murder, and for Ira G. Collins, who is to be tried for burglary and larceny.

Charges against the four men followed the death of Carlton at the Cotton Belt railroad pumping station he operated at Gray's Point. Carlton was killed when he surprised burglars waiting to rob Mrs. Carlton of $425 she always carried in her clothing.

Albert M. Spradling is Collin's attorney; S. P. Dalton will represent Manor; J. Henry Caruthers, Smith; and R. P. Smith, McGee. The four attorneys live in Cape Girardeau.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our many friends for their kind words of sympathy and help during the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Enterline. We also desire to thank all who sent the beautiful floral offerings and all who assisted us in any way. We also thank Rev. A. E. Ray for his kindness, the choir of the Miner and Blodgett Baptist churches for the music, and the Nunneley Undertaking Co.

W. M. Enterline and family.

Fleas do not bite everyone, but they are apt to leave a very severe welt on children and grown-ups who are bitten by them, says Leonard Haseman of the Missouri College of Agriculture. The bites should be promptly treated with something to prevent secondary infection setting in due to scratching. Iodine or any of the standard skin lotions may be used to alleviate the irritation and to protect against infection.

J. W. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Davis has been threatened with typhoid for the past week but is much improved at this time.

Three Boys Fined For Stealing Watermelons

Three boys who stole watermelons Tuesday afternoon from a patch belonging to Ed Clinton were each fined $5 and sentenced to thirty days in jail when they were taken before Judge William S. Smith Wednesday morning.

The jail sentences were stayed upon the payment of fines, to which were added 50 cents for each melon.

The boys are Bobby Dover, Charles Tanner, and Lloyd Sisson. Joe McCord, whose car was used to steal the melons, was dismissed Wednesday when his companions said he was not involved. The melon patch is located a mile and a half south of Miner Switch.

Late Tuesday afternoon, the three boys drove down the boneyard road, stopping to ask Mr. Clinton's daughter where the Malcolm ditch was located. Then while members of the family watched, they went into a patch and put three melons in the McCord Chevrolet. To avoid passing the house, they backed the car a quarter of a mile up the road, truned around in Mr. Clinton's lane and headed south.

When Mr. Clinton's son, Ora Clinton, returned home from the International shoe factory, where he is employed, he was told of the theft. As he went to town to take his father to a physician, Mr. Clinton stopped at the Malcolm ditch, seeing four boys swimming and the three melons, two of them broken.

Put these melons in my car, he told them. Then he noted the car's license number before coming to Sikeston. At the patrol office he learned the name of the automobile's owner, and to officers he gave the names of the boys, whom he knew.

Farmers throughout the Sikeston district have been troubled this summer by melon thieves. Bill Cole, who lives on the Salcedo road, has lost many to thieves. Mr. Clinton estimates that half a carload has been taken from his patches. One morning this week he found that twenty-four green ones had been broken and left in the field.

Officers were searching Wednesday for the driver of a truck which made three trips into a patch of Mr. Clinton's on Tuesday and once Wednesday morning, when fifteen melons were stolen. The patch is located far from the Clinton houses and is kept from their sight by a corn field. On Tuesday the boneyard road and Highway 60 east to Miner were littered with green melons that had been tossed out, presumably from a moving truck.

Jobs For 1500--Work To Start September 2

All between the ages of 6 and 20 will have opportunity to keep busy five days per week when the old school bell rings again to start the new session.

School is life, real life for a large cross-section of humanity. Not only does the modern school teach the three R's plus music and art, dramatics and athletics, home-making and shopwork, things included in the mental training of the child—but it looks after the health and pleasure of the pupils as well. It does much towards character training, too, the making of good citizens, the development of the whole being, striving to secure the right attitude toward life.

The Sikeston schools are in the forefront in attempting to do big things for our children. Free books are furnished in the eight grades, and ample opportunity is given in the high school for all to express themselves in some special line. Over 700 are expected to enroll in the first five grades in the two elementary buildings, while over 600 will be in high school building from the sixth grade up.

High school pupils are asked to enroll a week early, mornings beginning August 26.

Parents are urged to have the children ready with proper clothing, but are urged even more to discuss freely with the teachers the things that will help the child to adjust himself to his fellows. A shy, sensitive child needs help, as does an over-bold one. And it is your own child you should be interested in first. We are seeking more than ever to find the good in each child, the brightness of him, instead of the contrary. And we should like to stamp indelibly into his nature some traits Honesty for instance, first, since over half of those sent to prison in Missouri last year were convicted of stealing.

We expect a good year. We are proud alike of faculty, pupils and patrons. Your continued cooperation will insure outstanding results.

Charleston Treasurer Is Found Short $19,632

C. L. Joslyn, Charleston city treasurer, was found to be short $19,632 when a audit of his books was submitted at a city council meeting Monday night. The shortage was chiefly in the water works and sewer bond sinking funds accounts.

At a special session Tuesday evening, Joslyn resigned from the position he has held since 1927, and councilmen set August 20 as the date for a special election for selection of a new treasurer. The city is protected in the shortage by a $20,000 bond, Mayor E. E. Oliver said.

Joslyn requested an audit July 3 after heads of the state building and loan department had found a shortage of $16,815.47 in the books of the Charleston Savings and Loan Association, of which Joslyn was secretary for eighteen years.

The savings and loan organization has been turned over to the state for liquidation. At the time of the audit, Joslyn said he had not profited by association funds but had started juggling accounts three years ago in an effort to carry the group through the depression.

Preparations Made For Hanging of Three Men

As hope of life is fading for Dave Gayman and Roy E. Hamilton, a platform and beam for their hanging are being made at the Himmelberger-Harrison factory in Morehouse. Workmen plan to start building a stockade Monday.

Gayman and Hamilton are scheduled to be hanged August 16 for the murder of Arthur Cashion at a service station near New Madrid on Christmas Eve, 1933. Relatives have said they would appeal to Governor Guy B. Park, but no action has been taken.

Equipment for the hanging will be assembled soon at New Madrid. The scaffold will be nine feet from above the ground and the beam eighteen feet high. An enclosure will be made with planks sixteen feet high.

At Kennett, carpenters are constructing a scaffold on which C. D. Ward, a negro, will be hanged August 16 for attacking two Malden white women in 1933. Ward will stand on a platform nine feet square fitted in the center with a trap hole three feet square. A rope will be tied to a crossbeam nineteen feet above the ground.

THE WEATHER

The following high and low temperatures were recorded at the Frisco station by John LaFont.

	High	Low
Monday	101	74
Tuesday	102	74
Wednesday	101	76

Wednesday night the thermometer fell to 71 degrees.

Salvation Army Drive Being Made This Week In All County Towns

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Wisor, field representatives of the St. Louis headquarters of the Salvation Army, are in Scott county this week to conduct an annual campaign for funds for the state work of the army. Their drive will extend into next week.

Funds secured in the campaign are used to maintain these sixteen departments of service: Women's home and hospital; prison department; fresh air camps; missing persons' bureau; home league; employment departments; men's social service; anti-suicide bureau; league of mercy; disaster relief; children's homes; social centers; boys' and girls' refrom work; young women's boarding homes; children's day nurseries; and old men's homes.

In this well-organized human service, the Army activities in the state reach more than 5000 men women, and children each week with character-building and evangelistic programs. The Army serves men and women in the lowest strata of society, lending them helping hands and leading them to happier, healthier, and more useful lives.

"There are thousands of tired mothers and under privileged little children, friendless men, and dependent aged people who are tired of asking but who cannot help themselves," Mr. Wisor said. "The Army is mobilized and ready 365 days of the year to help by giving freely of funds given them to sustain and inspire this large group." He asks full support of the drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Wisor will be assisted by members of the county advisory board. They are C. C. White, chairman, C. L. Blanton, Sr., vice-chairman, and Dr. G. W. Presnell of Sikeston; M. H. Stubblefield Armor George, and Dr. G. A. Sample of Chaffee; and Alden Pinney of Benton.

MRS. G. MOORE GREER LEAVES FOR SEDALIA

Arriving here at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning, Mrs. G. Moore Greer visited friends before packing again and leaving the same morning for Sedalia, where she will serve as hostess of the women's building during the week of the state fair, which opens Saturday. She was accompanied by Miss Lora A. Myers, Jeannes supervisor of Scott county negro schools, who will again be her personal maid.

On Monday night, Mrs. Greer will help Miss Freda Lankford prepare for competition in a statewide beauty contest. Miss Lankford will stay with Mrs. Greer from the time she arrives at the fair Sunday evening until she returns, according to present plans.

Mrs. Greer came here Wednesday from Columbia, where she completed a four-weeks' adult education course in shorter time than other students so that she could attend the fair. The school will close Saturday.

WATER AND SHORE LINE PLANTINGS AID FISH

Ponds in the Big Creek area in Harrison County, built in cooperation with the soil conservation service, have been stocked with game fish recently, and the stocking of other ponds will be made soon. Owners of the ponds received their fish from the Missouri Game & Fish Department. To qualify for receiving them, they had fenced the ponds against live stock. The ponds also were stocked with water vegetation for food and cover for fish and game. In July shore line plants were made on some 30 farms of the Big Creek watershed, and much more of the same type of work is expected to be done yet this year and next. The shore-line and water vegetation not only will be attractive to waterfowls and upland game birds, but will keep the water shaded for fish. The shoreline plants used were cattails, wild blue iris, sedges and rushes. The submerged plants were mostly coontails, also known as Ceretophyllum. Plants which grow in the water, with stems emerging, were bog rushes and arrowheads. A small floating plant known as Lemma, od duck's meat also was scattered around in each pond. All these plants are valuable as fish or duck food, as cover for game and fish, and as a shade to keep the water cooler in summer.

CROPS DETERIORATING FOR LACK OF MOISTURE

With persistently high temperatures and lack of rains, most crops throughout the state are deteriorating, especially in the western third and in some central sections, according to a weekly bulletin issued by Roscoe Nunn at the United States weather bureau office in St. Louis.

In all parts of Missouri, temperatures have been very high this week, with maximum readings around 100 degrees almost every day. Fifty per cent of the stations in the state reported no rain at all, Mr. Nunn said and helpful rain fell at only about 30 per cent of the stations.

While most of the eastern half has not yet suffered greatly for lack of rain, the western half now has a severe drought in all except a few scattered areas. The average July rainfall for the state was 3.19 inches, .60 of an inch less than normal, but it was irregularly distributed, less than a half inch falling at several western stations.

In many fields corn is curling or firing. Some early planted corn is approaching roasting ear stage and is in good condition, but this is a very small percentage of the crop, according to Mr. Nunn. Most corn is late and small and has received little cultivation in drought areas because of hard ground.

Wheat threshing progressed satisfactorily, with the crop averaging only fairly good. Oat threshing is now well advanced and is generally showing good yields.

Though they have been suffering from lack of moisture, truck and hay crops are considered promising in most sections. Pastures are failing in the western half but are fairly good in the eastern counties. Apples and peaches are yielding fair to very good crops, and cotton is blooming freely.

Our Miss Vernetta Smith has been confined to her home for several days with a slight attack of malaria. Her sister, Miss Mary Ethel Smith, is occupying her desk in The Standard office in her absence.

Tourists Injured When Car Is Forced In Ditch

Two tourists were injured, one of them painfully, when their car was forced off Highway 60 west of town and turned over in a mud filled ditch Monday afternoon.

The travelers were Mr. and Mrs. James Roy Wilson and E. A. Koerner of Dayton, O. and Ewald William of Poplar Bluff, whom they were taking home.

Mrs. Wilson suffered two deep lacerations on her right hip, a sprained right hand, and strains to her back and right shoulder. Dr. Presnell, who treated her, closed the hip cuts with eight stitches. Mrs. Wilson has been suffering so intensely that she probably will not be moved this week from Dr. Presnell's office, where she has stayed since she was taken there in the Albritton ambulance.

Mr. Koerner suffered a laceration on his left wrist and a possible fracture of his pelvis. He and Mr. Williams went on to Poplar Bluff Monday night. Mr. Wilson is with his wife.

Leaving Dayton for their vacation, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and Mr. Koerner drove west to visit friends in Poplar Bluff and to take home Mr. Williams, who had been visiting them. As they reached the base of the Sikeston ridge west of here, a truck-trailer driven by Claud Allen of Gray Ridge, passed them. When Allen cut in too sharply, the rear of his trailer struck the left front part of Wilson's car, jarring it off the pavement and into the ditch.

All four of the tourists were covered with mud when their automobile sank in the ditch. Mrs. Wilson, who was in the back seat and Koerner, who sat in front beside Mr. Wilson, were cut by window and windshield glass that broke, it is thought. Though the car was dented it was not believed to be seriously damaged.

Allen did not stop his truck but drove on to Brown Spur, where he was stopped and told of the accident. He denied knowing he had struck the Wilson car, and after he had been questioned by troopers he was released. Trooper Melvin Dace said Mr. Wilson may have become frightened and driven his automobile into the ditch as the truck passed. He could find no marks to indicate that the truck had hit the car, he said.

Mrs. Wilson is an aunt of Mrs. Paul Taubert, an instructor in the Poplar Bluff grammar school who is living here this summer.

Mrs. Taubert drove Mrs. Wilson to Poplar Bluff Wednesday evening.

DR. PAUL WILLIAMS, CAPE DIES IN ST. LOUIS HOSPITAL

Dr. Paul Williams, a physician widely known in Southeast Missouri, died Wednesday morning at St. Mary's hospital in St. Louis, where he had been a patient since July 31.

On Sunday Dr. Williams underwent an operation for an intestinal obstruction, but he failed to recover satisfactorily even after two blood transfusions had been administered. He died when his heart weakened early Wednesday.

He was 47 years old. He was forn in Kelso but for the last twenty-three years he had been a practicing physician in Cape Girardeau, specializing in the treatment of children. He was a member of the official staffs of the Southeast Missouri hospital and of St. Francis hospital.

Funeral services will be held this morning at the First Baptist church in Cape Girardeau. Dr. Williams is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Gladys Roberts, three children, and his mother, Mrs. Phil Williams.

Sikeston men who attended the meeting were H. J. Welsh, Harvey Johnson, G. A. Dempster, and R. E. Patterson.

It was mighty nice of Chas. Burns to present the editor with some very fine melons, brought in during the week.

RECOVERY NOTES

Compiled by Dwight H. Brown, Secretary of State.

Seventy-three non-federal projects to cost $30,752,869 are now under construction in Missouri, according to W. A. Spann, acting state PWA director. Forty-nine non-federal projects have been completed in the state to date. They cost $2,081,677.

An increase of nearly 12 per cent in corporation profits is indicated in reports for the first half of 1935 as compared with the same period of 1934. Aggregate earnings of the 170 companies reporting were $358,977,470 this year against $320,974,330 for the first six months of last year.

The national administration has allotted Missouri $132,000 of the work relief funds for a survey of chronic diseases in this state. The survey will be made under the direction of the State Board of Health.

Declaring that economic conditions are improving, Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, predicts an increase of from one to two million persons in private employment during the next year.

Business activity during the week ending July 20 registered a marked upturn, according to the Corporation. Its index of business Administrative and Research trend during the week increased to 73.2 as against 66.7 in the previous week and 67.2 in the corresponding 1934 period.

Orders received by leading shoe companies for the month of July, 1935 were 10 per cent greater than during July of last year. The forthcoming autumn season is expected to be far ahead of the corresponding period of 1934 from a standpoint of production.

Elimination of at least sixty-five grade crossings in Missouri will be under way in the next month. Projects are now being prepared by the state highway department and will be announced within a few weeks. The federal government has tentatively allotted $13,000,000 to Missouri and Kansas for the elimination of dangerous crossings.

The Portland General Electric Company has announced a restoration of 1929 wages which will affect more than 1200 workers. In 1931 salaries were cut 8 per cent and in 1933 a further reduction of from 5 to 20 per cent was made. The 1933 reduction was restored last year.

Postmaster General James A. Farley is of the opinion that the depression will be ended and conditions in general in the United States will be in good shape by next summer. "We are further out of the depression right now than most people realize," Farley said.

Picnic Pickups

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

THE OLD-FASHIONED picnic was great fun for everyone but mother. She it was who planned and cooked and packed for hours before the starting time. A picnic in those days required as much work as a party. But there is no reason why it should today. The new style buffet picnic has so simplified preparations that now we can easily bundle up the family and go to the country every week. We have but to rifle the pantry shelves of their grand ready-to-use foods, hop in the car and be off. When it comes time to eat, place the foods on a paper table cloth and let every one serve himself. The family will enjoy making their own favorite snacks. Stock the picnic basket with such necessary wherewithal as sliced loaves of bread, packaged cheese and butter, jars of meat, mayonnaise, peanut butter, chili sauce, ketchup, jellies, jams, apple butter, pickles, relishes, olives, mustard, and a few old knives, forks and spoons for spreading. Then try some of these grand combinations. The weather is fine, let's pack up and be off:

Snappy Ham and Swiss Sandwich—Spread a slice of rye bread with butter, then with a thin layer of Prepared Brown Mustard. Top with a slice of boiled or baked ham, add a waferlike piece of Swiss cheese and spread with a bit of Chili Sauce. Place a second slice of buttered rye bread on top.

Baked Bean Club Sandwich—Spread one slice of bread with Oven Baked Beans (with Pork and Tomato Sauce), and press lightly with fork. Spread another slice of bread with Peanut Butter. Top the Beans with thin slices of onion and then tomato. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover with lettuce and top with the other slice of bread.

Sliced Cucumber Sandwich—Spread a slice of buttered bread thinly with Mayonnaise. Add thin slices of cucumber and sprinkle with a very little scraped onion and salt. Add a second slice of buttered bread.

Sandwich Spread and Peanut Butter Sandwich—Spread one slice of bread with Sandwich Spread and another slice with Peanut Butter. Combine the two.

Peanut Butter and India Relish Sandwich—Spread 1 slice of bread with Peanut Butter, then add a layer of India Relish. Top with a second slice of bread which has been spread with Mayonnaise.

Minced Ham and Mustard Sandwich—Spread a slice of bread with a thin layer of Prepared Brown or Yellow Mustard or Tomato Ketchup, then add a layer of minced ham or a slice of corned beef. Top with slices of Fresh Cucumber Pickle and second slice of bread.

Sandwich Spread and Egg Sandwich—Spread two slices of bread with Sandwich Spread. Place slices of hard cooked egg on one slice of bread and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with lettuce and second slice of bread.

Chicken and Dill Pickle Sandwich—Place thin slices of chicken on one slice of bread, then top with thin slices of Genuine Dill Pickle. Cover with second slice of bread.

Cheese and Jelly Sandwich—Spread a slice of bread with butter, then with Currant or Quince Jelly. Spread second slice of bread with cream cheese. Combine the two.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS FROM PARIS APPEAL

Restricting motors to a speed of not more than 25 miles an hour would solve the problem of preserving 35,000 lives a year on our highways. Restricting hunters to guns of breech-loading or muzzle-loader type would solve the problem of protecting and preserving game; this, too, without any decrease in the sport of hunting. Some of these days we may elect a legislature on these issues or write such laws into the constitution through the initiative.

We have a suggestion for the November, 1936, election. Instead of each party spending millions of dollars for oratory, advertising organization and agitation, why not save money, time and temper by submitting this simple proposition to the people: "All who are better off because of the Roosevelt policies will please stand and be counted while all who were better off under the Hoover policies will next stand and be counted." After all, what else should be considered?

Another bewildering thing about the Jew in Germany is that he has been deprived of every privilege except the privilege of leaving the country. All public offices are closed against Jewish men. All German schools are closed against Jewish children. A general boycott is being waged against Jewish places of business. No Jews are allowed to serve in army and navy. Just why Hitler is unwilling for them to leave the country is more than an outsider can understand, unless he recalls that the decline of Spain from the pinacle of national glory to a fifth place among nations is attributed by historians and economists to her folly in expelling Jews from the country.

Every community, it seems, has at least one man who constantly violates Rule 6. Rule 6 reads: "Don't take yourself too damn seriously".

The share-the-wealth slogan might be all right for campaign purposes in the autumn, winter and spring. As for the summer time, most of us would prefer a share-the-chigger policy, the idea being to shift to the idle rich those which pester those of us who are poor but honest.

The trouble is with the American people. The reason they are not excited and indignant about power interests using more than a million dollars of money belonging to stockholders for purchasing legislative influence at Washington is that the public has no conscience about such matters. There is a lot more indignation over the president's effort to make the rich pay more taxes than there is over the thievery, bribery and banditry incident to the activities of great power interests in the national capital.

The farm surplus problem most likely will be solved in chemical laboratories rather than by legislative enactments. Chemists already have discovered how to make many useful things of corn, wheat and beans including cheap wall boards from fodder, a substitute for metal automobile parts from beans; syrups and breakfast foods from grain. There is reason to believe that further commercial uses will be found for these and other crops that are grown on farms, and that the time will come when the problem of producing enough for all needs will be just as serious as the present problems incident to producing too much.

We do not get into the spirit of those who are shedding tears because public relief offices were closed and supplies cut off last week. The time has come for both Government and State to quit this business. That a lot of people will still have to be helped there is no question. This problem could be solved and a lot of abuses stopped by requiring each town to take care of any of its own people who might be in need leaving to county courts the task of taking care of those in rural districts. It would help, too, if the names of those on relief were published every three months. There would have been some eye-openers in such a list last winter.

But, fellow-Democrats, why worry about what will happen to Franklin D. Roosevelt next year? He will be running against a man most likely Herbert C. Hoover, who is opposed to old-age pensions, against guaranteed bank deposits, against all that is being done for the farming industry, against the policy of saving millions of homes from foreclosure, against higher taxes for millionaires, against jobs for the unemployed, against measures that have been taken against crooked financial and industrial interests, against relief for the destitute, and against all the other fine things that have been undertaken by the party in power. The campaign will resolve itself into a choice between a continuance of the Roosevelt policies or a return to the Hoover policies. And on such an issue Roosevelt probably will carry every state in the Union.

Major Lloyd Stark paid The Standard office a hurried visit Thursday forenoon while in Sikeston. He is making a hurried trip through Southeast Missouri to contact Democrats and Independents who he hopes to have with him in the coming state campaign. We firmly believe there will be no opposition to him for the governorship when the campaign opens in 1936. At this time there are few voters of any political affiliation that does not know Major Stark and to a man they know his special fitness for the position of Governor of Missouri. Southeast Missouri will be as a stonewall behind him.

We believe Sikeston is as peaceful and law abiding as any city of the size in the land and has no use for the old blue laws. It is a city that both young and old like to visit. You don't think for a minute that anyone would drive to Sikeston on Sunday if it wasn't for the fact they can get a bite to eat, a cold drink, to view our pretty homes and handsome store windows, and find an air-cooled picture show in which to rest and relax. We'll say not. All of this will mean nothing if the blue laws now on the statute books are enforced to the letter. Let's give and take. Many of us do not work very much on Sunday and some work very little at anytime. It is according to how we were raised as to how we live. The golden rule is the best way to live and let God judge as to where we shall go on judgment day.

DIES OF INJURIES FROM AUTO ACCIDENT JUNE 9

Mrs. Oscar E. Young died at her home near LaForge Wednesday afternoon of injuries which she suffered in an automobile accident on Highway 61, June 9.

In the accident, which happened two miles north of New Madrid, Mrs. Young's granddaughter, Marie Douglass, was killed and four other persons were hurt when a money and record vault fell on the Young car as it struck a large truck. Mrs. Young and her husband were wedged in the front seat of the automobile, which had been mashed by the safe.

Mrs. Young suffered a badly cut face and the loss of her right eye. Her nose was virtually removed from her face. he remained in the Southeast Missouri hospital at Cape Girardeau until July 1, when her condition was considered sufficiently satisfactory for her to be taken to her home a mile north of LaForge. She failed to recover, however, and died at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Young was born in Newton county, Arkansas, on March 10, 1895. She had been a resident of the LaForge community for a year and a half, moving there from Blytheville.

She is survived by her husband, Oscar E. Young, who was slightly injured in the accident; two sons, Ralph and William Young of the home; four daughters, Mrs. Eliza Williams, Culman, Ala.; Mrs. Irene Douglas, Blytheville, and Misses Pearl and Jewel Young of the home; a sister, Mrs. Ira Tennison, Swain, Ark.; and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Mooney, also of Swain.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the home, the Rev. L. A. Stafford of Blytheville officiating. Burial was in the New Madrid cemetery. Albritton service.

CHARGED WITH BURNING DIAMOND TAVERN MAY 11

Luther Thomas and Arnold (known as Alton) Cox were arrested here late Tuesday night on warrants charging them with setting fire to the Diamond Tavern early on the morning of May 11.

Thomas and Cox were arrested by Sheriff Sam Harris of New Madrid county, Chief Deputy Sheriff George Smart, also of New Madrid, and Night Marshal Gid Daniels. After a night in the New Madrid jail, Cox gained release on a bond of $3000. Thomas was still held Thursday. Both men are charged with arson.

In a telephone conversation Thursday, Sheriff Harris refused discuss the case.

From the time the Diamond Tavern was opened until two months before it was burned, Thomas was a partner of Paul Jones, operator of the place. Cox had no business connection with the tavern.

The tavern was burned to the ground by a fire which started in a tourist's bedroom. The entire structure and the building's equipment were consumed by the flames. The loss was only partly covered by insurance.

The shed where an engine generated electricity for the tavern was saved with fire extinguishers, and explosion of gasoline pumps in front of the tavern was prevented by Paul Jones, Jr., when he lowered fuel in them to underground storage tanks.

Last winter, an effort to burn the tavern was stopped when a man asked to set it afire told Mr. Jones of the plan. A new tavern was built this spring on the sight of the former structure.

DACE CAPTURES AUTO THIEVES ON SUSPICION

Trooper Melvin Dace caught two young automobile thieves Tuesday as he was on his way to Jefferson City to get a new Chevrolet patrol car.

Driving north on Highway 61, he noticed a 1929 Chevrolet sedan on the road south of Cape Girardeau, and becoming suspicious of the occupants, he stopped and questioned them. When they acted more strangely, Trooper Dace checked the car's license numbers, discovering the machine had been stolen in Tennessee. He placed the young men, Roy Dickerson, 17, and J. C. Dickerson, 25, both of Chattanooga, Tenn., in the Jackson jail and turned them over to federal goverment agents, who will prosecute them under the Dyer act.

Before he went to Jefferson City, Trooper Dace this week also arrested M. C. Blake, a negro south of town, and Virgil Debaun, of New Madrid, both for driving cars with borrowed licenses. When they were taken before Judge William S. Smith, the men were each fined $5 and costs. They agreed to buy new license.

On Monday Trooper Dace arrested Guy Lumkins on a charge of careless and reckless driving. Judge Joseph W. Myers dismissed the charge after Lumkins had paid a small sum for costs.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. . . Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

Missourians Activities in Washington

By Foust Roper.

WASHINGTON, Augs. 7—Random notes for a hot August day: Quite by chance, one day last winter, I discovered the private offices of the vice president in the Senate office building. His suite of rooms is next to the massive arches which form the entrance to the courtyard in the hollow square formed by the large structure.

The discovery was something of a shock, for during all my goings-around it had never occurred to me that official might have a set of rooms. I had always considered the office of vice-president as something one was elected to—not four walls, a desk and chair and a couple of telephones. Indeed, if someone had asked me how to get to the vice president's office, I probably would have told him the only way was to get nominated on a winning ticket.

Farmers would never like this city and its way of doing things. Most of the large stores here close on Saturdays. Such a practice is a God-send to the harried employes, of course, but to one who was reared in a "Saturday" town it seems, from a business viewpoint, the ultra-ult of darned foolishness.

Those of you who have not been in Washington in the last few months and who remember the blocks of crumby buildings which lined the streets northwest of the Capitol grounds, will find these eyesores removed when you return. They have already been rased and their former sites are being beautified to provide a neighborhood more in keeping with the magnificience of Capitol Hill.

Also, landscape work is constantly going forward on the Mall that wide swath of green which stretches across town from the Capitol to the Lincoln Memorial—with the Washington monument in its middle—and it in time will represent a studied pattern of trees and shrubbery.

This constant improvement and revamping is one of the most characteristic characteristics—August alliteration, as it were—of all government enterprises. All over town, this and that is constantly being changed and altered. And while costs are counted closely, the whole thing is done on such a scale as to give a casual observer the idea expense is the last and least consideration.

The Capital has gone in for "heavy" music enthusiastically this summer. Audiences of 10,000 have been attending the regular Sunday and Wednesday concerts of the National Symphony. The orchestra plays from a barge moored in the Potomac while listeners line the bank to the tune of such popular prices as 25c, 50 cents and $1. Like any great gathering, the musicales have a "knothole" gang, although this particular one is a superior sort of "knothole" gang which attends the concerts in canoes, thus avoiding the admission fee.

Even the most fleeting sketch of Washington as a city could not omit mention of its taxicabs, whose number is variously estimated from 400 to 600. Such competition has lowered fares to the point within the reach of practically all.

The city is divided into zones and one can go anywhere in the first zone for 20 cents (nearly everyone hands the driver a quarter, thus netting him a 5-cent tip). Such points as the Capitol, the Union Station, virually all the departments, the White House, all the downtown section and a considerable part of the residential are in this first area. Street car fare is a dime here, thus making cabs as cheap for two persons and cheaper than trolleys for more than two.

Bright Spots: The Shoreham hotel terrace, a decidedly Riviera atmosphere gained mainly from gay umbrellas. Swell music and a favorite summer rendezvous for political and social Washington . . . Mayflower hotel lounge, indoors but air cooled and one of the city's most delightful spots. Subdued lights, subdued music and subdued drinking make this one of the most pleasantly intimate of all the cocktail and supper dancing places. Typical of the Mayflower, which is to Washington as the Chase is to St. Louis and the Muehlebach is to K. C.—Maryland Club Gardens, over the district line in Maryland, outdoor dining with good music and a nice swimming pool. Chief attraction is the stand-up bar (vertical drinking is against the law in the District).

These, then, are but sides on the Washington scene, for although Washington has its own peculiar earmarks as a city, yet it is rarely considered as a metropolis. Washington is not a city, Washington is the government. Many individuals live here for years and never see the President, yet his presence and that of the entire machine of state is ever felt. Politics is heard in every restaurant, on every street corner. Government affairs are the warp and woof of the town.

Business goes on, traffic gets balled up, movies draw crowds and humans dash about the streets but somehow it all seems silly. All mortal pursuits seem foolish when enacted before such an inconceivably large background as that of the government—even though it itself is but the product of humans!

Thousands of black ants took refuge in the pants of Capt. Hugh Eames and Fireman Albert Maxwell of Reading, Mass., when the firemen unlimbered a chemical line to put out a fire in a big elm tree. The ants had been driven from their nest by the fire and they were driven from the firemen's pants only when a hose was turned on them back at the firehouse.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money.

SUMMER FLOWERS

Summer offers unlimited opportunities for unusual flower pictures.

ALTHOUGH June 21 is considered the first day of summer, it seems that, as far as the well-known public is concerned, Nature's traffic signal turns to "Go" on Decoration Day and the season is open for picnics, week-end trips, vacations and all activities classed under the general heading of "Outdoor Sports."

Heading the list of summer activities, however, should be "snapshooting" for picture taking with the modern day camera is one fascinating, healthful recreation that may be enjoyed by the young or old, and we might add—rich or poor for today cameras are available at prices to meet the capacity of any pocketbook and good pictures can be taken with all of them.

Another thing in favor of amateur photography as a pastime or hobby is the fact that it is not necessary to be an expert to get pleasing results, for modern-day cameras and film have been materially simplified for the snapshooter.

Late spring and summer offer great possibilities for flower and garden pictures, from the first appearance of the colorful crocus through the season to the arrival of the giant chrysanthemum in the fall.

The first rule of flower portraiture is: Avoid harsh lighting. By this, I mean that flowers seldom make good pictures under direct, midday sun. The light between ten and three in the summer is so intense that you get an over-abundance of chalk, highlights and inky shadows. To catch the subtle beauty of the colorings in flowers, it is much better to work under the slanting rays of the sun in early morning or late afternoon.

You will doubtless want to take close-ups of some of the flowers. If your camera will not focus closer than ten feet, or thereabouts, get a portrait attachment (a simple, inexpensive lens that fits over the regular lens). With it you can get very close to your subjects, for striking and beautiful shots.

Here's another trick. To make a particular flower or plant stand out vividly, get a big sheet of gray cardboard and stand it up back of the flower, far enough away so that—if you are using direct sunlight—no shadows fall on it.

To catch the color values of flowers, you'll need to use the new supersensitive panchromatic film. "Panchromatic" means the film is capable of recording, in monochrome of course, a wide range of colors. Your photo dealer will help you select the best film for your special needs, and you will get snapshots to which you can point with pride and say, "I snapped that one."

SIKESTON GOLFERS PLAY THEIR FIRST TIGHT MATCH

Sikeston, 26—Dexter, 24

The local golfers had their first close call of the season Sunday, when they defeated the Dexter golfers by the close score of 26 to 24. The closeness of the match was due to the absence of some eight of the local golfers, who were away on vacation trips. C. C. Scott, Dr. T. C. McClure, Joe Matthews, Lyle Malone, D. L. Fisher, Harry Harty, Peg Mahew were absent Sunday. This group is usually able to score some 15 to 18 points in each match. Buddy Matthews, another one of the good shooters for the local club, failed to get matched Sunday, which cost the local club another two or three poinst.

O. Lumsden was the star of the match Sunday, with a dazzling 66 on the tough par 70 Dexter Course. This four strokes under par and set a new record for the Dexter course, the former record being a score of 67. Hester Alexander with 76 and George W. Kirk and Lyman Bowman with 78's, were the only other local golfers to break 80. H. J. Kirk had a score of 80. Geo. Sisler of Dexter with a 74 and Morris Sisler with 73 were the low scorers for Dexter.

Only one match remains on the lacal schedule in the Southeast Missouri League—that with Poplar Bluff on September 1. The locals have an open date Sunday. On August 18 and 25, the annual Southeast Missouri Amateur tournament will be played over the Poplar Bluff course. Sonny Lee, the present champion who is now located at Jefferson City, will be home to compete in this tournament and defend his championship. This will undoubtedly be the best tournament ever held, as the competition will be keener than ever before. Lumsden, 1933 champion, John Phillips of Poplar Bluff, Sonny Lee, Hester Alexander, George Sisler and Morris Sisler of Dexter, Jiggs Miles and V. Powell are the acknowledged "hot-shots" and will make the going plenty tough for all comers. Whichever one of these boys happens to be "right" and turns on the heat, will win this championship. Geo. W. Kirk, 1930 and 1931 winner of this championship and other Sikeston golfers will enter this tournament. Kirk won the Class A match last year at Cape Girardeau. As there will be four classes this year, any of the local players might have a chance to place in this tournament this year. A special prize is being offered this year for the best four man team entered in the Poplar Bluff match. The local club expects to take this four man team trophy this year. Lumsden, Alexander, Geo. Kirk, and either Bill Malone or C. C. Scott will probably represent the local club in this four man team event.

Scores of the match Sunday are as follows:

O. Lumsden, 66-3; M. Sisler, 73.

H. A. Alexander, 76; Geo. A. Sisler, 74-2.

G. W. Kirk, 78-2; L. Trammell 81.

L. Bowman, 78-1; F. Lane, 77-2.

H. J. Kirk, 80-3; H. Fritts, 91.

Bill Malone, 81; R. Sisler, 78-3.

Lee Bowman, 81-1; Jas. Buck, 81-1.

Billy Keith, 87-2; A. L. Thrower, 93.

L. Stallcup, 83-2; L. Seilert, 87-1.

H. Trowbridge, 96; G. Ulen, 86-3.

B. Forrester, 90; Max Clodfelter, 94-3.

Eddie Mathis, 97-1; Herbert Thrower, 94-2.

Ted Martin, 93-1; L. Leggett, 94-2.

F. M. Robbins, 94-1; F. Jean, 84-2

V. Rost, 91-3; H. Morgan, 98.

Wm. Mann, 104-2; M. Holdman, 109-1.

Fr. Flanagan, 91; Van Bibber, 80-3.

Charles Dickens' DAVID COPPERFIELD

ADAPTED BY BEATRICE FABER FROM THE METRO-GOLDWYN MAYER Picture

CHAPTER VIII

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE

As a child, David Copperfield, an orphan, had been sent away from home by his step-father. After some months of drudgery in a warehouse in London, relieved, however, by his friendship with the gay, irresponsible Micawbers, he had gone to live with his Aunt Betsy Trotwood. Then came schooldays. Living at the Wickfield home, he and Agnes Wickfield became fast friends. Now, grown up and departing for London for a career as an author, Uriah Heep, Wickfield's clerk (whom David secretly distrusts) hands him a letter which causes him to express his intense amazement.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Dora

Glancing once more at the large scrawled signature, "Wilkins Micawber," David hastily sought out Agnes. He waved the letter excitedly. "Micawber! In Canterbury! I haven't seen him since I was a child! I'll soon be back, Agnes." And he rushed out.

At the Sun Inn, David quickly made his way to the Micawbers' rooms. There he was given an enthusiastic and vociferous welcome.

"Copperfield! Companion of my youth!" Micawber shook him by the shoulders affectionately.

"And dear Mrs. Micawber," David said, greeting her with a bear hug. "And what a happy surprise to see you here in Canterbury."

Mrs. Micawber explained. "Mr. Micawber and I and the children—there are still only four—have lately been visiting a branch of my family in Camden Town. I will not disguise from you that my family failed to entertain us with ardor. In fact, this is between ourselves, our reception may be described as cool."

David's mouth twitched. "I am sorry to hear it."

Micawber shook his head. "My dear," he said pleasantly, "my impression is that your family are, in the aggregate, impertinent snobs, and in detail, unmitigated ruffians."

"Wilkins, no," Mrs. Micawber replied in kindly tones, "you have never understood them and they have never understood you. They may be incapable of it. I can pity their misfortune."

Micawber displayed the advertising columns of the newspaper. "We have been investigating the merits of various prospective business enterprises here—and I am

"What a happy surprise to see you here in Canterbury," said David.

rather confident that something will turn up."

Mrs. Micawber threw up her head proudly. "I have a conviction that Mr. Micawber's manners peculiarly qualify him for a legal career."

"Hem! Really, my dear," Micawber said, throwing out his chest a bit. "You see, Copperfield, I am much impressed with your friend Heep. He is a young fellow who might become attorney-general. He has been good enough to make me a tentative offer of employment in a confidential capacity."

David could not contain his surprise. "Then something did turn up."

Micawber pursed his lips. "Perhaps the foundation of a new career. I have already some acquaintance with the law—as a defendant on civil process——"

"Would it be too much to hope that Mr. Micawber would eventually become a judge or chancellor?" Mrs. Micawber asked, preening a bit.

David concealed his amusement. "Well—he would be eligible. I wish you all success."

After a light supper which David could not find it in his heart to refuse, he left, vastly cheered and entertained by the renewal of his old friendship.

A week later he was met by his schoolboy chum, Steerforth, in London. He it was who opened up a new world to David, displaying all the sights and wonders of the city to his friend's eagerly inquiring eyes.

One evening they had taken a box at the Haymarket Theatre and Steerforth, in high good humor, was bowing to some friends at the other side of the theatre.

David stared at the stage then looked about him. "It's a gala evening, Steerforth. I've always wanted to see 'The Enchanted Bird.' I've heard—" He stopped short as his eyes were caught by a young woman of dazzling brunette beauty who, with her two maiden aunts had entered the box next to his.

Steerforth, watching the stage, had not seen the newcomers. "Yes. But I can scarcely be excited, Davy, about an old bird of forty being shot by a bow and arrow—" He noticed David's inattentiveness. "Davy, that's the stage," he said, laughing.

David touched his arm. "I say, don't let her notice," he said in a low quivering voice, "—the next box—the most beautiful girl—oh, Steerforth, what heavenly curls."

Steerforth glanced at her out of the corner of his eye. "Yes, by Jove, she is pretty," he agreed, "and look at the two old dragons with her."

"How wonderful if I could speak to her," David said. Then he added despairingly, "Oh, but, of course, I never shall, unless something happened like the theatre catching fire."

"There's something much easier than that," Steerforth said decisively. "Trust an old hand." Then watching carefully to see that he was unobserved, he stealthily tipped one of the old Aunt's opera glasses over into his box.

As he had expected, she started in dismay. "Oh dear! Oh dear! My glasses."

With a triumphant wink at David, Steerforth hid the glasses under his chair. Then he held forth his own pair. "Excuse me, Madame," he said with a courtly bow, "I will find them in the interval. Meanwhile, allow me. I have an excellent pair."

The Aunt inclined her head in a stiff bow and eyed him sharply. Then his handsome good looks and well-bred air seemed to have impressed her favorably. She smiled. "Thank you, sir. You're most obliging."

David and Dora were by this time exchanging surreptitious glances, and as Steerforth noted this, he once more spoke up. "Is not the ballet charming?"

"Yes, yes indeed," the old lady replied confusedly.

Steerforth smiled at her winningly. "I notice that your box is very badly placed. I'm afraid you can see but half the stage——"

"Yes—it is a little——"

"I wonder——" Steerforth stopped with just the proper amount of deferential hesitation. "I hardly dare to suggest—but our box is so large and has a better view—I wonder whether I might not tempt you and the other ladies to share it."

The two Aunts held a fluttering little tete-a-tete. Then with encouraging smiles at one another they moved into their neighbor's box, followed by their niece.

"Permit me, ma'am," Steerforth said, "this is Mr. Copperfield. My name is Steerforth."

"Our name is Spenlow," the Aunt replied with dignity. "This is my sister, Clarissa—and my niece, Dora."

After much bowing back and forth, Steerforth seated them skillfully manoeuvering David so that he was beside Dora.

Her eyes were intent on the stage and its central figure—the ballerina, in the headdress of a bird.

"I shall be riding often in the direction of Norwood, Miss Spenlow," David said, no longer able to contain himself.

Dora scarcely seemed to be hearing him. "Oh, yes indeed. How agreeable." At this point the ballerina floated towards the middle of the stage. "Oh, she's like a dove—we have such a beautiful dovecote at home."

David drew a little closer. "Miss Spenlow, how I should like to see the dovecote. May I not call? Would your aunts have any objection?"

Now the hunter appeared on the stage with his bow and arrow. The Corps de Ballet started back, frightened.

Dora clasped her hands together. "Can he be so cruel as to shoot her?"

"Sometimes love is cruel, Miss Spenlow," David said meaningly.

"Oh, do you think so?" Dora asked. She turned again. "Now he has drawn his bow——"

"Miss Spenlow," David said, quietly desperate for her notice.

But Dora's eyes continued to follow the ballerina, who had now flown toward the wings, and with a last graceful movement, disappeared.

Dora sank back in her chair. "She has escaped! She has escaped!" she cried joyfully.

David looked square into her face. "Please, Miss Spenlow, may I not call?"

And now she was fully conscious of him and aware, too, that she liked him very much. With her head tilted to one side, she replied, "Perhaps—if my aunts permit."

And in the weeks that followed, the Aunts did permit. Soon Dora's dog, Jip, was following him about as if they had known each other for years. One enchanting day followed the other, hours spent gliding lazily in the canoe over the lake, or picnicking amidst the grass and flowers in the meadow. Then David captured the brilliance of Dora's starry eyes and placed it in the stones of a sparkling engagement ring.

He and Steerforth were standing on the beach one day, watching the rolling surf breaking on the shore beneath a glorious sunset. David had just finished writing "Dora" on the sand with a stick of driftwood.

Steerforth smiled. "The old sun must be amused with a constant spectacle of romantic lovers." He started along the beach. "Come along, Davy." He turned around puzzled, however, as he noticed David was not following.

And then his bewilderment increased, for David was staring off into the distance at something, his eyes wide and his face struggling with an emotion that Steerforth could not define.

(In this quiet, isolated spot, what has David seen that seems to perturb him so? Is it some new memory of the past that has risen up? Read tomorrow's exciting installment.)

NEW MADRID COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

The Barnes Ridge School Board have decided to tear down the old school building which is in a bad shape and build a new one 24 by 40 with modern window arrangement and a coal house attached to the rear. They will use the flowage money just received from the government and their building fund to purchase materials and are asking the WPA to supply the labor and some material.

The WPA applications consist of several pages of detailed information which must be filled in and filed with Charley Blanton, WPA District Administrator, who forwards them on to Washington for approval. We do not know how long it will take these applications to be approved and returned.

If any school district has a project in mind, the board should submit an application now. As we understand it, the local school is to furnish all or most of the materials and the WPA is to furnish relief labor and possibly some of the materials. We had hoped that small projects such as painting schools could be handled direct from the local WPA office but so far it seems that the above routine must be followed.

A four weeks' Adult Education Conference is now being held in Columbia in preparation for the Emergency Educational Program to be organized this winter. Each county is represented by a counselor who is to be trained to help in this work. Lawrence Wiseman represents New Madrid County and we expect him to be home soon to give us full details on the new set-up which we understand will be different from last year. Several unemployed teachers have already expressed their intention to file an application to teach some kind of class this winter. From the information we have, it seems that the applications will be certified by the county superintendent as to qualifications and will be checked on by the relief department as to need. Then the application will be forwarded to Jefferson City for approval. If approved, then the applicant may proceed with the class. Our difficulty last winter was in getting a class that would attend regularly.

The lowest grades on teachers' examination last week were made in Arithmetic, the grades ranging from 10 per cent to 95 per cent, the average being 40 per cent. Norman Pierce of Gideon made the highest grade. The problems were a little more difficult than usual, however most of them were taught in the seventh and eighth grades. The problems given on examination are as follows:

1 Define percentage, trade discount, exact interest. Find the exact interest on $35 for 27 days at 6 percent.

2 A man buys a stove listed at $48 with discounts of 25 per cent and 10 per cent. He gets an extra discount of 2 per cent for cash. How much will the stove cost if paid for at once.

3. Should the profit be determined on the selling price or on the cost price? Why?

4. Give the table for Dry Measure. For Square Measure. A man has a circular field 120 rods in diameter. How many acres in the field?

5. A swimming pool 90 feet long and 35 feet wide is filled with water to a depth of 6 feet. How many gallons of water are in the pool?

A man receives $564 annually from an investment of $10,000. If part of the investment yields 5 1-2 per cent and the rest 6 per cent, how much has he invested at each rate.

7. If you buy a 4 per cent bond at 94 and keep it until it matures will your investment earn more or less in all than 4 per cent a year? Why?

8. A monument casts a shadow of 45 feet when a post 8 feet casts a shadow of 2 feet. How hig is the monument?

9. Find the cost of 350 shares of stock, par value of $100, paying 6 per cent dividends if the rate on the investment it 4 4-5 per cent.

10. A cylinder is 10 feet long and its volume is 785.4 cubic feet. Find its diameter.

The grades on spelling ranged from 64 per cent to 74 per cent, half of the grades depending on the spelling of the following words business, sandwich, occasion, recommendation, grammar, misspell, bonfire, eyelash, dungeon, majesty, forfeit, mosaic, ocher, laity, cameo, camouflage, plumbing, apish, shrewd, juggler, irony, parallel, source, treasury, noticeable.

Junior C. of C. Game Postponed

Because several outstanding players were unable to go to Cairo Tuesday, the Sikeston Junior Chamber of Commerce softball game with the Cairo junior chamber was postponed. Kemper Bruton, president of the organization here, said no date has yet been set for the game.

PATROL SCHOOL CLOSES; MEN ASSIGNED TO TROOPS

The State Highway Patrol's school of instruction at Camp Clark Nevada, has closed and the thirty-four successful candidates have been assigned to various patrol troops by Col. Marvin B. Casteel head of the State Patrol.

Four of the men have been assigned to Troop B at Macon, six to Troop A at Kansas City, nine to Troop C at Kirkwood, five to Troop D at Springfield, five to Troop E at Sikeston, two to Troop F at Jefferson City, and three to Headquarters Troop at Jefferson City.

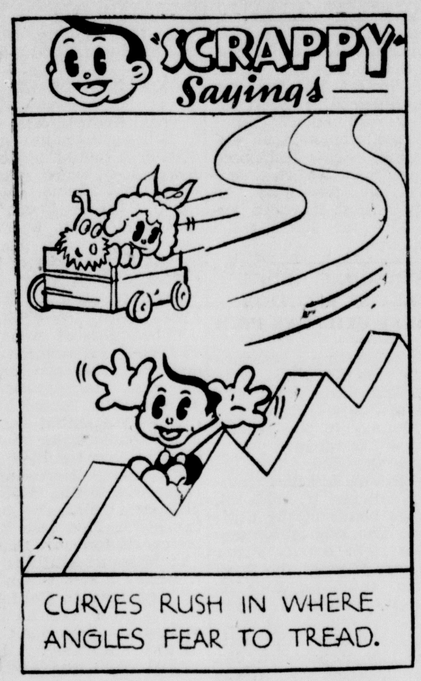

The new members of the patrol will report for duty on August 15.

EXPANSION OF STATE PRISON GETS UNDER WAY

The first step has been taken in the Missouri State Prison's big expansion program under the state's $13,000,000 building bond issue.

Stephen B. Hunter, director of the state penal board, recently announced the purchase of two lots adjoining the penitentiary in Jefferson City which will be used for expansion of facilities at the prison warehouse. Both of the lots are now occupied by houses which will be razed to make way for the new construction.

Purchase of the property, Director Hunter said, is the first step taken to improve and expand state penitentiary facilities.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE TO BEGIN ABOUT AUG. 15

Preliminary football practice will be started the middle of this month, according to Coach William E. Mahew.

Squad members will meet at night for limbering exercises. About fifteen former players who practiced last spring are expected to report again, including seven lettermen.

The Bulldogs' season will open September 27 at Jonesboro and will end after the Thanksgiving game with Charleston here. Only four games will be played at home; with Humes high of Memphis on October 11; Matthews, October 18; Chaffee, October 25; and Charleston.

TWO ESCAPE INJURY AS CAR TURNS OPER

Miss Marie Weekley and Hubert Carrington suffered slight body bruises Tuesday afternoon when the car in which they were riding turned completely over on a gravel road twelve miles north of here. The automobile a Plymouth coupe, was not badly damaged.

At the time of the accident, Miss Weekley and Mr. Carrington, both employes of the Electric Service Compahy, were on their way to a farm home to deliver a radio. Workmen had recently graded the road they were driving on but had left a steep ridge in the middle. When the car struck the ridge as it went down a short incline, it skidded and turned over, landing on its wheels in a ditch. After a team had pulled the automobile from the ditch, Miss Weekley and Mr. Carrington returned home.

WHEAT YIELD UNCERTAIN SURPLUS IS ANTICIPATED

Because of the prevalence of black rust disease in parts of the spring wheat belt, the amount of the country's wheat harvest is still uncertain, according to an August report of economic conditions issued by the National City Bank of New York.

Chicago grain house observers believe the outturn may fall from 50,000,000 to 70,000,000 bushels below the July 1 estimate, but if it does the crop will be in excess of domestic requirements for the first time in three years, the report states.

The total winter and spring wheat yield predicted on July 1 totals 731,000,000, compared with 497,000,000 last year and 529,000,000 the year before. "Except in years of abnormally heavy feeding of wheat to livestock, which is not to be expected this year," according to the report, "domestic requirements for all purposes are no more than 625,000,000 or 650,000,000 bushels." Adding to the 100,000,000 bushels of surplus is 160,000000 bushels representing the carryover of old wheat on July 1. Such a crop would make available for exports and end-season stocks, a surplus far above the 125,000,000 which is considered a normal reserve supply.

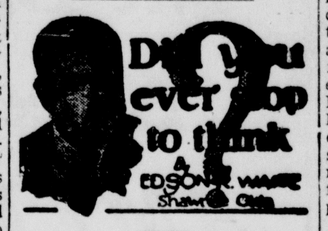

"Unless the rust damage comes up to the worst expectations, the AAA will obviously face a difficult problem, with a surplus to dispose of and the price in this country above the world price," the report states. "Our wheat is 25 to 30 cents too high to sell abroad in competition with other producers; and the AAA, whose objective is the "parity price', now about $1.07 on the farm, desires to keep the market on a domestic basis . . . With the supply increasing again above our own needs, the natural tendency is for the surplus to seek an outlet in world markets, and the chances are that government assistance will be needed if prices are to be maintained over the world level. The market is plainly counting upon such assistance as well as upon the crop damage."

PORTAGEVILLE REQUESTS PWA LOAN FOR PLANT

Portageville has applied for a PWA loan and grant for a proposed $12,725 aerator and filter plant, William M. Spann, acting state PWA director, announced Tuesday. Portageville has asked a loan of $7000 and a grant of $5725. Also included in a list of eleven Missouri cities which filed applications last week is one from Farmington, which seeks $33,998 for a $77,773 street improvement project.

New Rural Rehabilitation Assistant Selected

W. Earl Chapman has left his position as assistant district rural rehabilitation supervisor in charge of Scott and Mississippi counties. Next Month, Mr. Chapman plans to enroll for graduate work at the Missouri College of Agriculture. He has been succeeded here by Dewitt Jones, formerly rural rehabilitation supervisor of Butler county.

James E. Barrett, managing director of the Oklahoma Biltmore Hotel, in Oklahoma City, says:

"Hospitality makes popularity.

"This is the theory upon which the policy of a house is built and which has made hotel history during the past few years.

"The comfortable hospitality which every man seeks must include the element of human friendliness, which is achieved only through personal contact.

"As no service is too small for a manager to do for his guest, so no request from a guest is too trivial to receive the attention of any member of his staff to whom it may be made.

"No matter how elegant the surroundings, how complete the service, what price the room tariff, the guest remembers only whether he enjoyed his stay and forgets the rest."

The Battle of Armageddon

By Elder John B. Huffman

By special request, Elder John B. Huffman will explain all about the famous scriptural Battle of "Armageddon", Revelation 16:18, on the street corner in front of Sterling's store, where preaching and lecturing is done quite often next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. He will explain the events preceding this very important battle, and the perilous times of this age. If you want to know about this very important subject, come out and hear it. All Bible students or those who want to learn Biblical things of this time of the end, need to hear it.

Elder Huffman may deliver a series of talks on the "Revelations" if there are sufficient number of people who make urgent request for it.

Remember, Saturday Afternoon, August 10, 1935.

The frankness of a hitch-hiker landed him at the nearest police station. As H. P. Baker of Boston waited for the change of a traffic light at Brookline avenue, the door of his automobile was thrown open and a man clad in a nightgown, bathrobe and bedroom slippers hopped in. "I'm escaping from the Psychopathis Hospital," he said calmly, but Baker was not so calm. He speeded straight to the nearest police station, and five husky policemen gave Denis L. Terterella a free ride right back to the hospital.

When a farmer near Carroll, Ohio, saw Hocking River sweep away his entire crop, he shut his gates and charged all sightseers admission to view his flooded farm. "I have to make hay some way," he explained.

Sim Trimmer of Rockbridge, caught in the same floor of the Hocking River, got a boat and rowed to his cows stranded on a hillside, milked them, and rowed back home with the milk. "Cows have to be milked, no matter how high the floods," he said.

OBJECTS TO CITY'S $50 CONTRIBUTION FOR LIONS CHORUS CONVENTION TRIP

Objecting to $50 which was contributed to the Lions club chorus fund for a trip to an international convention in Mexico City, Mexico, E. H. Smith sought to have the bill refused for payment when it was presented at a regular council meeting Monday nite.

When the July bills were considered, Mr. Smith moved that all statements except the $50 contribution be accepted. His motion was seconded by T. F. Rafferty, but was rejected when the three other councilmen present voted against it. Mr. Smith was the only board member who balloted against a motion accepting all bills, made after his was defeated.

Mr. Smith objected to donating $50 because the city is hard-pressed to pay its obligations, he said, and because he felt that the use of taxpayers' money was not proper. Other councilmen stated that the chorus had amply repaid the city by advertising it during many appearances in other towns.

Aldermen Monday night decided to authorize the board of public works to install a hydrant beside the city hall for the use of visitors and a second one in Malone park for picnickers. After considering buying an electric water cooler for the district WPA offices, they voted to purchase an ice cooler instead for use during the remainder of the summer. An electric water cooler would cost $216.

A request by Pleas Malcolm that the city sponsor a clinic for grammar school children whose tonsils are infected was referred to the health committee. It will be remembered that a movement for a clinic was started last spring. Plans were abandoned, however, when it was learned that Red Cross officials had themselves tried to interest students in a clinic. Parents of children who needed attention refused to give consent for medical treatment.

Clarence Scott's request that waivers on the city liability policy excluding the acts of police and firemen be signed by Dr. G. W. Presnell was refused after a long discussion.

Members of the street and alley committee will consider a request made by George W. Kirk that the city close the ally which runs in Applegate's first addition by the homes of J. A. Hess and Franklin Moore. A vote on the city's new proposed intoxicating liquor ordiance was deferred until the next council session after a third reading Monday night, when Mr. Smith said he would not vote on the act. The approval of five aldermen is required for passage of an ordinance.

Before councilmen held an executive session, they authorized Charles Boardman, street commissioner, to have weeds cut on about thirty vacant lots and appropriated $100 for direct relief here this month.

ASKS RESTRAINING ORDER TO STOP CITY'S ACTION AGAINST UTILITIES FIRM

A petition requesting a restraining order to stop Sikeston from pressing its quo warranto suit against the Missouri Utilities Co., was filed Monday in the federal court at Cape Girardeau.

The action was taken by the Community Power & Light Company, which alleges it holds all first mortgage bonds of the utilities concern. The city is without constitutional right for its ouster suit, which was filed in the Scott county circuit court on July 12, the Community Power & Light contends.

Defendants named in the petition are the city of Sikeston, Dr. G. W. Presnell, other city officials and Prosecuting Attorney W. P. Wilkerson.

Since judges of the federal court's eastern Missouri division are now on vacations, it is not known if a hearing for a temporary writ will be held at once. If it is not, then the city will proceed with its suit against the utilities when the circuit court convenes Monday. If a writ were granted, the city's action would be delayed.

Fordyce, White, Mayme & Williams are attorneys for the Community Power & Light Company. Roger A. Bailey and Robert Dempster will represent the city.

Murder Trial Postponed

A trial for Virgil Crouch of Gray Ridge, who is charged with killing Jacob Walker November 4, has been continued in the Stoddard county circuit court until September 2. The continuance was asked by a defense attorney. Crouch allegedly shot and killed Walker after a quarrel during a card game at Gray Ridge. Crouch has been in jail at Bloomfield since the shooting. His trial was last set for next Monday.

ON RIGHTS OF A CITY

That Kennett has every right to believe that she will be successful in her effort to oust the Arkansas-Missouri Power Company from Kennett, when and if the U. S.Circuit Court of Appeals gives a decision, which has been overdue for more than a month, is strongly indicated in the following excerpt from an editorial which appeared in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch Sunday:

"The rights of cities and towns in their legal relations to grants and franchises are important. As electrical energy becomes an always greater factor in American life, it is essential that communities should know the law of the land in this troubled domain.

"The long drawn-out battle between California, Mo., and the Missouri Utilities Co., illustrate the point. This case has been in the courts for more than six years. The Missouri Utilities Co., had a franchise under which it furnished electricity to California. When the franchise expired in 1929, the community undertook to supply its own electricity. It built a municipal plant and asked the Missouri Utilities Co., to vacate the streets.

"The legal contest resulting from this forthright action has gone to and fro. As the battle progressed, it became more and more apparent that California was on very solid ground. She has the impressive decisions of the United States Supreme Court to support her. One of these decisions was in the case of the street railway company at Detroit, the other in the case of the water company at Denver. In both instances, the franchises under which the companies were operating had expired, and the Supreme Court upheld the right of the city to its streets. The law of the land holds plainly that all such communities can say, at the expiration of a franchise, whether or not they wish possession of their streets.

"This is just what Ben Ely, a Special Commissioner of the Missouri Supreme Court has said in case of California. He reasserts the right of the community to its streets, and suggests the Missouri Utilities Co., be given a year in which to vacate them. California does not want Missouri Utilities to continue the services formerly rendered. This is her right. It is the right of every city and town."—Kennett Democrat.

FARMER ACCIDENTIALLY KILLS SELF WITH GUN

Simon Blattel, a farmer of west of Kelso died Tuesday morning a short time after he had accidentally fired into his abdomen a bullet from a 12-gauge shotgun. He was about 60 years old.

At the time of the accident, Blattel was sitting on the steps of his farm home after returning from a field. Though friends were not certain, they thought the shotgun trigger must have caught on the side of the stairs as Blattel prepared to unload the weapon. He spoke only a few words in German to his wife before he died.

Coroner H. J. Welsh, who conducted an inquest at Kelso Tuesday, held Blattel's death accidental.

Early in the morning Blattel went to the field to pick cucumbers so that Mrs. Blattel could make pickles. As was his custom, he took the shotgun with him to fire at rabbits which inhabited the field. He was shot immediately after he had returned to his house.

ITCHELL' SALE OF STOCK TO WIFE HELD FRAUDULENT

Washington, August 7—A vic-ory was won by the government oday in a Board of Tax Appeals ecision upholding major counts a $1,275,644 income tax suit gainst Charles E. Mitchell, form-chairman of the National City ank of New York.

It embraced a story of Mitchell's ecline in fortune from $30,000,-00 in 1929 to insolvency in 1932.

Bluntly, the tax court said the lleged sale" by Mitchell to his ife in 1929 of 18,300 shares of ational City Bank stock "was audulent with intent to evade xes". The banker had claimed loss of $2,872,305, but the board id "the alleged loss did not con-itute an allowable deduction om income."

Mitchell was upheld in his con-ntion that a $758,918 loss suf-red in 1930 on a sale of 8500 ares of Anaconda Copper min-g stock was deductible from net come for that year.

But his contention that $666,666 ceived in 1929 from the Nation-City's management fund did ot constitute taxable income was verruled and again the board id:

"The failure to report such pay-ent for taxation was fraudulent ith intent to evade tax."

Further, the board said Mit-ell's 1930 income tax return was raudulent" because he did not clude $54,900 on dividends on e bank stock "fraudulently" ld his wife in 1929.

Treasury officials estimated the ard decision validated approxi-ately $1,200,000 of the original ,275,644 claim against the New ork financier, for it held that his ry acquittal in a New York Dis-ict Court on criminal charges of x evasion "do not bar the im-sition of the penalty of 50 per nt of the deficiency."

The Treasury had claimed tax ficiencies of $728,709 for 1929 d $121,719 for 1930. The respec-ve 50 per cent penalties brought e total assessment to $1,275,644.

Mitchell resigned as head of the ational City Bank early in 1933. is stock transactions had been ought out previously in the nate Banking Committee's ock market investigation.

In neither of the two years cov-ed in the board's ruling did itchell pay any federal income x. The board said that for 1929 ter the deduction on the sale bank stock to his wife and the llure to include the $666,666 om the management fund, Mis-ell reported a net loss of $48,-9.

For 1930, the board said the nker's return showed a net in-me of $8552 and "he paid no come tax for that year."

The Tax Court's summary of sts said that on December 20, 29, Mitchell's "net worth" ap-oximated $30,000,000. It said at figure "declined until in or out February, 1931, he advised organ & Co. that he had ex-usted all his assets and was able to furnish any further col-eral." The board added:

"Thereafter, petitioner's finan-l condition became progressive-worse and on March 24, 1932, was insolvent by an amount excess of $3,000,000.

J. P. Morgan & Co., had given itchell a personal $12,000,000 edit at the time of the 1929 mar-t crash for stock purchases.

Throughout the state Major rk is gaining the favor of De-ratic leaders for the nomina-for governor in 1936. Inform-politicians here believe he find solid support in South-Missouri and that he will bably have no opposition in his party when the primary elec-is held next summer.

OUTSTANDING EVENTS IN U. S. NAVAL HISTORY

Samoan Incident — April 1, 1899.—In 1899 native dsiturbances in the Samoan Islands forced the United States, England, and Germany to inteffere for the protection of their national interests. A native government was re-established under the general supervision of the three countries. In 1899 fresh trouble broke out which led to dispatching English and American naval vessels to Apia, Samoa. Admiral Albert Kautz was senior officer present on the U. S. S. Philadelphia, and one of the officers on the ship was Ensign T. T. Craven. On April 1, 1899 a joint landing force of Americans and English was ambushed by the natives. Lieutenant P. V. Lansdale, U. S. Navy, was shot and Ensign J. R. Monaghan gallantly died protecting his superior officer and covering the retreat of the landing force. Those killed in action were Lieutenant Lansdale, Ensign Monaghan, two United States enlisted men, Lietenant A. H. Freedman, Royal Navy, and two British bluejackets. On April 3rd the ships shelled the island in reprisal. On December 2, 1899, England withdrew fram the islands, and they were divided between Germany and the United States. We received the islands of Tutuila and Manua. During the World War England captured the German possessions in these islands and holds them now.

PWA APPLICATION FOR SCHOOL MAY BE FILED

An application for a PWA grant and loan for construction of a new school building here may have been filed Thursday at the state PWA headquarters in St. Louis, R. E. Bailey, secretary of the board of education, said. Mr. Bailey mailed forms, plans, and estimates Wednesday to William B. Ittner, Incorporated, of St. Louis, architect for the school.

Two representatives of the state PWA office who visited here Wednesday spoke encouragingly about Sikeston's chances of securing a loan and grant. The architect's estimate for a two-story brick building was $40,000. The figure is probably higher, however, than the cost of constructing the building. Under a new ruling labor for PWA projects may be paid wages prevailing in individual communities instead of on a scale set down by the government. The wages formerly in effect were higher than those paid here.

The board of education asks a grant of 45 per cent of the total cost and a loan of 55 per cent. The community's share will be paid with money awarded the board in a $20,000 preference claim against the Sikeston Trust Company.

The building will be erected on a lot immediately north of the high school, owned by the board for many years. It will have eight classrooms, restrooms, and two offices.

NEW STORE FRONTS ATTRACT CUSTOMERS

Money Spent on Modernizating Under New Liberal Terms May Prove to Be Wise Investment

Modernization may prove to be the way to take "For Rent" signs off vacant store and shop buildings. No progressive tenant wants an old, dilapidated structure. Buildings in a good location and in good condition, however, usually rent without delay.

You can get loans now from your local bank or other financial institution to modernize stores, shops, and other types of business property. The National Housing Act has made money available to property owners for this purpose on the most reasonable terms ever offered.

You can borrow as much as $2,000 and pay it back monthly over a period up to 5 years (at the discretion of the financial institution).

Modernizing a store front is not expensive if you use some of the new surfacing materials. They can be easily applied and add greatly to the outward appearance. Money wisely spent in this way frequently means the difference between no income at all and a substantial profit.

Here are some pointers to remember in modernizing stores or shops: Provide maximum window display space flush with the building line; a wide entrance door, preferably opening in; simple exterior lines; space above the entrance for a large sign; and adequate lighting and ventilation for show windows.

Over the capitol building at Washington there are four flags staffs; the flags over the east and west entrances fly night and day and hauled down only when the Congress adjourns. These flags are the only ones in the United States which by right are permitted to fly after sundown. The custodian of the flags states that since this Congress has been in session wind and rain have worn out seven sets of flags.

Admiral Byrd took ice-boxes with him to the South Pole regions to keep his provisions from freezing too solid.

In 1775, Navy enlisted men received $80 per year for their service.

The Japanese Navy's 1,900 tons of the latest word in submarine building, was recently launched at the Kure Navy Base. It is the seventh and last of a class of farcruising submarines, said to be capable of crossing the Pacific and returning without refueling.

John Paul Jones was an admiral in the Rusian Navy, knighted by Catherine of Russia, given a commission by Sweden, pensioned by France, buried in Paris and reinterred in Annapolis, Md., U. S. A.

The latest thing in modern submarines, the U. S. S. Shark, shows a long trail of progress in submarine construction followed since John Phillip Holland, the Irish inventor, designed and built the first successfully operated U. S. submarine 35 years ago.

Latest Household Hints Illustrated

Timely Pictures and articles for the thousands of women who are following the popular trend to electric cookery.

Cooking miracles are a common occurrence in modern kitchens since the electric range came into popular favor. Here is one of the "miracles"—perfectly baked cream puffs started in a "cold oven." This is "one step" baking and time saving at its best. The controlled moisture and even heat in the Hotpoint range of the electric oven make perfect cream puffs a certainty every time. Made this modern way, cream puffs are always feathery light, golden brown and unbelievably delicious. Electric range sales have shown a sharp upturn and cooking miracles like this are said to be one of the reasons.

Rapidly increasing use of the modern electric range is resulting in a new, and easier method of entertaining. The modern hostess puts sandwiches on the broiler rack of the electric oven, plugs in the percolator, sets the "chef's brain" (automatic timer clock) and sits down to play bridge with her guests. At the appointed time she goes to the kitchen and takes hot "eat—me—quick" sandwiches from the oven and with perfectly percolated coffee serves a hot luncheon. The automatic electric range watches the cooking while she plays.

One miracle of the modern electric range now occupying the spotlight of the household appliance field, is the elimination of the double boiler in cooking cereals, sauces, rarebits, etc. The evenly measured heat of electric cookery permits cooking of such foods in ordinary saucepans or skillets.

"Remote Control" of cooking comes to the kitchen. Modern electric ranges now sweeping into popular favor everywhere are equipped with automatic timer clocks. Women put their meals in the oven, set the timer clock and go about their other work or play. The "Chef's brain" turns the oven on at the proper time; turns it off when the food is cooked.

St. Louis, landscaping sanitarium grounds, $56,572 total cost. $55,926 federal cost; improvement nursery, $12,350 total cost, $7983 federal cost; treating trees along streets and parks, $78,585 total cost, $62,610 federal cost; widening Twelfth street, $10,726 total cost, $19,886 federal cost.

Two Kansas City projects previously had been sent to Washington. One was for grading Thirty-ninth street at total cost of $89,216 of which federal cost was $72,080, and the other was subgrading and paving Gregory boulevard at total cost of $300,672 of which federal cost was $275,984.

The grand total of all 11 projects from Missouri that have been approved by Murray is $617,802 of which the WPA will contribute $528,968 if all projects are approved in Washington.

Christ healed the sick, fed the hungry and raised the dead. That was away back before Heck was a pup. Abraham Lincoln was a poor man, sympathized with the oppressed, and freed the negroes. He was the first and only president that came from the grass roots. All others were nabobs, aristocrats, and in sympathy with Big Business, believing the poor could take care of themselves. Things came to such a pass in this country that a political uprising placed in the white house a man who was raised with a silver spoon in his mouth but endowed with a heart that beat for the downtrodden. He gathered about him the greatest aggregation of brains ever scrambled in Washington and out of this omelet came all the alphabet in a scrambled fashion and from these alphabets sprang the many projects that gave employment to many thruout the land, gave financial aid to the farmer, furnished the money to feed the hungry, and still we hear criticism of his policies from many who benefitted thereby. If God ever put into the heart of man the love of his fellow countryman, then He did that very thing for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

PARISIAN CHORUS GIRLS REACH END OF SUBTILE NUDITY

PARIS—The once daring costume of Parisian chorus girls is being discarded here as an old-fashioned relic of the gay '90s.

Sheer fig leaves, humming bird wings and tiny bouquets of flowers are glued to the body now—much to the delectation of the baldheaded row.

The new music-hall attire or rather lack of it, attains a 99-100 per cent nudity which is just enough to meet the legal requirements of modesty on the Paris stage.

Entirely naked except for a fig leaf or a bird wing, a chorus girl of the French capital merely needs to walk before the footlights and she is assured a round of masculine applause. When she dances, the silence becomes tense, for there is always the possibility that the glue may melt away and the leaf may flutter to the ground or the wing take sudden flight.

Directors of Paris music halls, however, contend that the new garb is more aesthetic than the most bespangled and artistic adornment once worn. They point out that this innovation does not interfere with the natural lines and curves of the feminine body or contrast harshly with the whiteness of a naked body.

More harmonious scenic effects, it is argued, can be obtained with this new kind of loin adornment. One of the best illustrations of this is a paradisical garden tableau at the Folies-Bergere, in which unclothed sirens, disporting themselves inelectrically illuminated bouquets of flowers, attempt to revive a half-drowned beachcomber who has been washed ashore on an island of topical splendor.

Although nakedness is more prevalent than ever in the Paris music halls, there is a definite tendency to be more subtle in the presentation of beauty.

'Make Your Pictures Say Something'

Always have your subjects doing something

HUNDREDS of thousands of juvenile story books are sold every year and the ones we loved most in our younger years were those translated into pictures, because they had a human appeal. All through our lives we retain our interest in picture stories. It is this appeal that takes us to the movies and causes us to look through the pages of daily newspapers and magazines for pictures that tell stories of human activities.

But when it comes to snapshots, so many seem to forget how much they enjoy looking at story-telling pictures. They pick up their cameras and just shoot, seemingly satisfied to get any pictures at all, as it was in the old days of, "You Press the Button and We Do the Rest." There is a better way to take pictures.

If you want to enjoy some good laughs take a look at some of the pictures in the old family album or some of the snapshots you took several years ago. There you will probably find some perfect examples of record pictures—pictures of Uncle Charlie or Aunt Minnie in a stiff pose against the trunk of a tree or with an unattractive garage door as a background. Don't take pictures of your friends just standing looking at the camera. Have them lighting a cigarette, reading, or doing something to season the picture with that human interest touch that should be in every film you expose.

You go out on a picnic with your friends. What do you do? The chances are that you line up the gang, you snap the camera and again have just another picture when it would be just as easy to have the crowd enjoying the lunch and perhaps one member busily engaged in the act of "exterminating" a luscious ear of corn or doing a "boarding house reach" for the potato salad.

If you were making movies, would you take foot after foot of film with your actors doing nothing? Of course not, and it isn't a bad idea to think of your "still" camera as a movie camera filming a drama. Get action and meaning. This means that you should think before you shoot.

The two pictures above really "say something." Jack's picture with his bicycle tells of "chain trouble" and a delay in meeting the gang at the vacant lot for a game of baseball, while Billie is probably telling his young girl friend about his great adventures as a sailor; of pirate's gold and Pieces of Eight.

In case you have never given much thought to this before, just take a look through a newspaper or magazine and notice which please you more—pictures of people merely looking at the camera or pictures of people doing something humanly interesting and significant. Chances are that the story-telling pictures will be your choice, and you'll make up your mind that hereafter that's the kind you'll aim to take. Good luck!

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

$17,000 HIDDEN IN MATTRESS IS LOST IN WIFE'S BONFIRE

ALGOOD, TENN., August 5—Aral Bilbrey's wife made his bed. She made it out of nice clean straw—and it cost Bilbrey just $17,000.

The farmer was away from home when his wife decided to fill her mattresses or ticks with new straw. She had to empty the old straw, so she built a bonfire.

Then Bilbrey came home and his wife remembered. Her husband was thrifty. He had accumulated his wealth in currency, stocks, notes and the like and hidden these away in a mattress. They all went up in smoke.

Ways and Means With Ice Cream

A royal way to serve ice cream is "Apricots Parisienne". You poach halved apricots in their syrup, flavor with vanilla, cool and drain. When ready to serve, press the halves on either side of a ball of vanilla ice cream and set upon macaroons. Then cover with flavored whipped cream and sprinkle with chopped filberts.

Coupe Palm Beach is another Ritzy arrangement of ice cream. A scoop of vanilla ice cream is put in a coupe glass. Around it are placed melon balls, ripe strawberries and small sections of orange, all of which have been marinated in honey. One or two spoonsful of honey are poured over the ice cream.

A "Black and White" sundae is interesting. It is served in parfait glasses and consists of alternate spoonsful of chocolate and vanilla ice cream with chopped nut meats between. Pour in fudge sauce and top with whipped cream.

Sauce on ice cream or any dessert serves the three-fold purpose of moistening the dish, adding flavor and making the servings go farther.

A simple ice cream, such as vanila, is lovelier and more delectable if mantled in a luscious fruit, fudge or nut sauce or contrasting color and texture. Most ice creams are better for some such complement or "escort", but to most people vanilla almost always demands one!

A rich frozen dessert, such as a mousse or parfait, does not need any sauce or adornment.

One of the easiest sauces for plain vanilla ice cream is made by melting a chocolate-and-nut candy bar slowly over low heat or hot water, and adding one or two spoonsful of cream.

Almost any fruit jelly melted and flavored or thickened a little makes a delicious sauce for ice cream. A syrup of stewed cherries added to an equal quantity of red currant jelly which has been melted, makes a delightful cherry sauce.

Ice cream may be varied interestingly by adding freshly grated cocoanut or peanut brittle to the ice cream mixture during the freezing process. This of course, is when you are making your ice cream at home in the automatic refrigerator.

It is comparatively simple to make a three-flavored brick ice cream in the freezing trays of your electric refrigerator. This is the way to do it. Use three flavors of ice cream or mousse, or two kinds of ice cream and a water ice. Fill your freezing tray one-third full of the first flavored ice cream, let it partially harden, and add the ice or second ice cream. When this is firm, fill the tray with the third mixture and freeze. When ready to serve, remove from the tray and slice.

Pineapple Kelsherb

1 can crushed pineapple (No. 2 size.)
1 1-2 cups confectioners sugar
Pinch of salt
1 quart buttermilk.

Add sugar, salt and buttermilk to well drained pineapple. Pour in Kelvinator tray and freeze. Stirring in tray during freezing improves texture. One tablespoonful vanilla may be added if desired. Makes 1 1-4 quarts.

Banana Sponge

2 small or 1 large banana.
1 tablespoon lemon juice
4 tablespoons confectioners sugar.
2 egg whites.

Mash banana through coarse wire strainer, add lemon juice. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in sugar. Combine the two mixtures and blend lightly but thoroughly. Place in individual paper cups and freeze in Refrigerator tray. Serves four to six.

Another thing that looks to us like swallowing both the gnat and the camel is the ruling, or law, that women shall not stand up to the bar and take their drinks like a man, but must be served at a table.

The summertime is most generally a quiet time in country newspaper offices insofar as finances is concerned. It is quiet in advertising and quiet in collecting. We pay some one to solicit advertising then pay some one to collect. Sometimes it necessitates several calls of the collector before the account is closed. Do your best if you owe us to pay promptly.

Paul Jones of the Kennett Democrat takes a crack for the employment of a chameleon in one of the key positions in the WPA headquarters in Sikeston. A chameleon is a sort of scorpion or lizzard that changes color to suit the leaf or log that it may be basking on. The political chameleon is one who is a Republican when that party is in power, and a Democrat when that party is in power. Paul failed to call his or her name, therefore we do not know which of the many is the changeling. However, we believe in putting 100 per cent Democrats in key positions under a Democratic setup, and the same under a Republican setup.

Many cities in Missouri will have entrants in the beauty contest at the Sedalia Fair to be "Miss Missouri" at the national contest at Atlantic City. It depends very much on the type of judges selected to decide the type of beauty. If the judges be of the sissy type, they may prefer them to be light and lithesome, with grace of the clinging vine type, while if they be of the he-man type with plenty of red blood in their veins, and a venus in a one-piece bathing suit would appear on the stage, all others would be out. Then, if the judges should be of the Grandma type, they would first form their opinion of whether or not the subject knew the rules of bridge, whether they were of the home-loving type, or they had the come-hither look in their eyes. Boy, oh Boy, what a bunch of Grandmothers could do to that galaxy of beauties would be a caution.

TRIALS FOR MEN ACCUSED OF KILLING CARLTON MAY NOT BE HELD THIS TERM

Claude McGee and Lloyd Smith, who are scheduled to be tried during the August term of circuit court for the murder May 8 of W. T. Carlton, will request changes of venue from Scott county defense attorney said this week.

Continuances until the next term of court will be asked for John B. Manor, also charged with Carlton's murder, and for Ira G. Collins, who is to be tried for burglary and larceny.

Charges against the four men followed the death of Carlton at the Cotton Belt railroad pumping station he operated at Gray's Point. Carlton was killed when he surprised burglars waiting to rob Mrs. Carlton of $425 she always carried in her clothing.

Albert M. Spradling is Collin's attorney; S. P. Dalton will represent Manor; J. Henry Caruthers, Smith; and R. P. Smith, McGee. The four attorneys live in Cape Girardeau.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our many friends for their kind words of sympathy and help during the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Enterline. We also desire to thank all who sent the beautiful floral offerings and all who assisted us in any way. We also thank Rev. A. E. Ray for his kindness, the choir of the Miner and Blodgett Baptist churches for the music, and the Nunneley Undertaking Co.

W. M. Enterline and family.

Fleas do not bite everyone, but they are apt to leave a very severe welt on children and grown-ups who are bitten by them, says Leonard Haseman of the Missouri College of Agriculture. The bites should be promptly treated with something to prevent secondary infection setting in due to scratching. Iodine or any of the standard skin lotions may be used to alleviate the irritation and to protect against infection.

J. W. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Davis has been threatened with typhoid for the past week but is much improved at this time.

Three Boys Fined For Stealing Watermelons

Three boys who stole watermelons Tuesday afternoon from a patch belonging to Ed Clinton were each fined $5 and sentenced to thirty days in jail when they were taken before Judge William S. Smith Wednesday morning.

The jail sentences were stayed upon the payment of fines, to which were added 50 cents for each melon.

The boys are Bobby Dover, Charles Tanner, and Lloyd Sisson. Joe McCord, whose car was used to steal the melons, was dismissed Wednesday when his companions said he was not involved. The melon patch is located a mile and a half south of Miner Switch.

Late Tuesday afternoon, the three boys drove down the boneyard road, stopping to ask Mr. Clinton's daughter where the Malcolm ditch was located. Then while members of the family watched, they went into a patch and put three melons in the McCord Chevrolet. To avoid passing the house, they backed the car a quarter of a mile up the road, truned around in Mr. Clinton's lane and headed south.

When Mr. Clinton's son, Ora Clinton, returned home from the International shoe factory, where he is employed, he was told of the theft. As he went to town to take his father to a physician, Mr. Clinton stopped at the Malcolm ditch, seeing four boys swimming and the three melons, two of them broken.

Put these melons in my car, he told them. Then he noted the car's license number before coming to Sikeston. At the patrol office he learned the name of the automobile's owner, and to officers he gave the names of the boys, whom he knew.

Farmers throughout the Sikeston district have been troubled this summer by melon thieves. Bill Cole, who lives on the Salcedo road, has lost many to thieves. Mr. Clinton estimates that half a carload has been taken from his patches. One morning this week he found that twenty-four green ones had been broken and left in the field.

Officers were searching Wednesday for the driver of a truck which made three trips into a patch of Mr. Clinton's on Tuesday and once Wednesday morning, when fifteen melons were stolen. The patch is located far from the Clinton houses and is kept from their sight by a corn field. On Tuesday the boneyard road and Highway 60 east to Miner were littered with green melons that had been tossed out, presumably from a moving truck.

Jobs For 1500--Work To Start September 2

All between the ages of 6 and 20 will have opportunity to keep busy five days per week when the old school bell rings again to start the new session.

School is life, real life for a large cross-section of humanity. Not only does the modern school teach the three R's plus music and art, dramatics and athletics, home-making and shopwork, things included in the mental training of the child—but it looks after the health and pleasure of the pupils as well. It does much towards character training, too, the making of good citizens, the development of the whole being, striving to secure the right attitude toward life.

The Sikeston schools are in the forefront in attempting to do big things for our children. Free books are furnished in the eight grades, and ample opportunity is given in the high school for all to express themselves in some special line. Over 700 are expected to enroll in the first five grades in the two elementary buildings, while over 600 will be in high school building from the sixth grade up.

High school pupils are asked to enroll a week early, mornings beginning August 26.

Parents are urged to have the children ready with proper clothing, but are urged even more to discuss freely with the teachers the things that will help the child to adjust himself to his fellows. A shy, sensitive child needs help, as does an over-bold one. And it is your own child you should be interested in first. We are seeking more than ever to find the good in each child, the brightness of him, instead of the contrary. And we should like to stamp indelibly into his nature some traits Honesty for instance, first, since over half of those sent to prison in Missouri last year were convicted of stealing.

We expect a good year. We are proud alike of faculty, pupils and patrons. Your continued cooperation will insure outstanding results.

Charleston Treasurer Is Found Short $19,632

C. L. Joslyn, Charleston city treasurer, was found to be short $19,632 when a audit of his books was submitted at a city council meeting Monday night. The shortage was chiefly in the water works and sewer bond sinking funds accounts.

At a special session Tuesday evening, Joslyn resigned from the position he has held since 1927, and councilmen set August 20 as the date for a special election for selection of a new treasurer. The city is protected in the shortage by a $20,000 bond, Mayor E. E. Oliver said.

Joslyn requested an audit July 3 after heads of the state building and loan department had found a shortage of $16,815.47 in the books of the Charleston Savings and Loan Association, of which Joslyn was secretary for eighteen years.

The savings and loan organization has been turned over to the state for liquidation. At the time of the audit, Joslyn said he had not profited by association funds but had started juggling accounts three years ago in an effort to carry the group through the depression.

Preparations Made For Hanging of Three Men

As hope of life is fading for Dave Gayman and Roy E. Hamilton, a platform and beam for their hanging are being made at the Himmelberger-Harrison factory in Morehouse. Workmen plan to start building a stockade Monday.

Gayman and Hamilton are scheduled to be hanged August 16 for the murder of Arthur Cashion at a service station near New Madrid on Christmas Eve, 1933. Relatives have said they would appeal to Governor Guy B. Park, but no action has been taken.

Equipment for the hanging will be assembled soon at New Madrid. The scaffold will be nine feet from above the ground and the beam eighteen feet high. An enclosure will be made with planks sixteen feet high.

At Kennett, carpenters are constructing a scaffold on which C. D. Ward, a negro, will be hanged August 16 for attacking two Malden white women in 1933. Ward will stand on a platform nine feet square fitted in the center with a trap hole three feet square. A rope will be tied to a crossbeam nineteen feet above the ground.

THE WEATHER

The following high and low temperatures were recorded at the Frisco station by John LaFont.

	High	Low
Monday	101	74
Tuesday	102	74
Wednesday	101	76

Wednesday night the thermometer fell to 71 degrees.

Salvation Army Drive Being Made This Week In All County Towns

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Wisor, field representatives of the St. Louis headquarters of the Salvation Army, are in Scott county this week to conduct an annual campaign for funds for the state work of the army. Their drive will extend into next week.

Funds secured in the campaign are used to maintain these sixteen departments of service: Women's home and hospital; prison department; fresh air camps; missing persons' bureau; home league; employment departments; men's social service; anti-suicide bureau; league of mercy; disaster relief; children's homes; social centers; boys' and girls' refrom work; young women's boarding homes; children's day nurseries; and old men's homes.

In this well-organized human service, the Army activities in the state reach more than 5000 men women, and children each week with character-building and evangelistic programs. The Army serves men and women in the lowest strata of society, lending them helping hands and leading them to happier, healthier, and more useful lives.

"There are thousands of tired mothers and under privileged little children, friendless men, and dependent aged people who are tired of asking but who cannot help themselves," Mr. Wisor said. "The Army is mobilized and ready 365 days of the year to help by giving freely of funds given them to sustain and inspire this large group." He asks full support of the drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Wisor will be assisted by members of the county advisory board. They are C. C. White, chairman, C. L. Blanton, Sr., vice-chairman, and Dr. G. W. Presnell of Sikeston; M. H. Stubblefield Armor George, and Dr. G. A. Sample of Chaffee; and Alden Pinney of Benton.

MRS. G. MOORE GREER LEAVES FOR SEDALIA

Arriving here at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning, Mrs. G. Moore Greer visited friends before packing again and leaving the same morning for Sedalia, where she will serve as hostess of the women's building during the week of the state fair, which opens Saturday. She was accompanied by Miss Lora A. Myers, Jeannes supervisor of Scott county negro schools, who will again be her personal maid.

On Monday night, Mrs. Greer will help Miss Freda Lankford prepare for competition in a statewide beauty contest. Miss Lankford will stay with Mrs. Greer from the time she arrives at the fair Sunday evening until she returns, according to present plans.

Mrs. Greer came here Wednesday from Columbia, where she completed a four-weeks' adult education course in shorter time than other students so that she could attend the fair. The school will close Saturday.

WATER AND SHORE LINE PLANTINGS AID FISH

Ponds in the Big Creek area in Harrison County, built in cooperation with the soil conservation service, have been stocked with game fish recently, and the stocking of other ponds will be made soon. Owners of the ponds received their fish from the Missouri Game & Fish Department. To qualify for receiving them, they had fenced the ponds against live stock. The ponds also were stocked with water vegetation for food and cover for fish and game. In July shore line plants were made on some 30 farms of the Big Creek watershed, and much more of the same type of work is expected to be done yet this year and next. The shore-line and water vegetation not only will be attractive to waterfowls and upland game birds, but will keep the water shaded for fish. The shoreline plants used were cattails, wild blue iris, sedges and rushes. The submerged plants were mostly coontails, also known as Ceretophyllum. Plants which grow in the water, with stems emerging, were bog rushes and arrowheads. A small floating plant known as Lemma, od duck's meat also was scattered around in each pond. All these plants are valuable as fish or duck food, as cover for game and fish, and as a shade to keep the water cooler in summer.

CROPS DETERIORATING FOR LACK OF MOISTURE

With persistently high temperatures and lack of rains, most crops throughout the state are detoriorating, especially in the western third and in some central sections, according to a weekly bulletin issued by Roscoe Nunn at the United States weather bureau office in St. Louis.

In all parts of Missouri, temperatures have been very high this week, with maximum readings around 100 degrees almost every day. Fifty per cent of the stations in the state reported no rain at all, Mr. Nunn said and helpful rain fell at only about 30 per cent of the stations.

While most of the eastern half has not yet suffered greatly for lack of rain, the western half now has a severe drought in all except a few scattered areas. The average July rainfall for the state was 3.19 inches, .60 of an inch less than normal, but it was irregularly distributed, less than a half inch falling at several western stations.

In many fields corn is curling or firing. Some early planted corn is approaching roasting ear stage and is in good condition, but this is a very small percentage of the crop, according to Mr. Nunn. Most corn is late and small and has received little cultivation in drought areas because of hard ground.

Wheat threshing progressed satisfactorily, with the crop averaging only fairly good. Oat threshing is now well advanced and is generally showing good yields.

Though they have been suffering from lack of moisture, truck and hay crops are considered promising in most sections. Pastures are failing in the western half but are fairly good in the eastern counties. Apples and peaches are yielding fair to very good crops, and cotton is blooming freely.

Our Miss Vernetta Smith has been confined to her home for several days with a slight attack of malaria. Her sister, Miss Mary Ethel Smith, is occupying her desk in The Standard office in her absence.

Tourists Injured When Car Is Forced In Ditch

Two tourists were injured, one of them painfully, when their car was forced off Highway 60 west of town and turned over in a mud filled ditch Monday afternoon.

The travelers were Mr. and Mrs. James Roy Wilson and E. A. Koerner of Dayton, O. and Ewald William of Poplar Bluff, whom they were taking home.

Mrs. Wilson suffered two deep lacerations on her right hip, a sprained right hand, and strains to her back and right shoulder. Dr. Presnell, who treated her, closed the hip cuts with eight stitches. Mrs. Wilson has been suffering so intensely that she probably will not be moved this week from Dr. Presnell's office, where she has stayed since she was taken there in the Albritton ambulance.

Mr. Koerner suffered a laceration on his left wrist and a possible fracture of his pelvis. He and Mr. Williams went on to Poplar Bluff Monday night. Mr. Wilson is with his wife.

Leaving Dayton for their vacation, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and Mr. Koerner drove west to visit friends in Poplar Bluff and to take home Mr. Williams, who had been visiting them. As they reached the base of the Sikeston ridge west of here, a truck-trailer driven by Claud Allen of Gray Ridge, passed them. When Allen cut in too sharply, the rear of his trailer struck the left front part of Wilson's car, jarring it off the pavement and into the ditch.

All four of the tourists were covered with mud when their automobile sank in the ditch. Mrs. Wilson, who was in the back seat and Koerner, who sat in front beside Mr. Wilson, were cut by window and windshield glass that broke, it is thought. Though the car was dented it was not believed to be seriously damaged.

Allen did not stop his truck but drove on to Brown Spur, where he was stopped and told of the accident. He denied knowing he had struck the Wilson car, and after he had been questioned by troopers he was released. Trooper Melvin Dace said Mr. Wilson may have become frightened and driven his automobile into the ditch as the truck passed. He could find no marks to indicate that the truck had hit the car, he said.

Mrs. Wilson is an aunt of Mrs. Paul Taubert, an instructor in the Poplar Bluff grammar school who is living here this summer.

Mrs. Taubert drove Mrs. Wilson to Poplar Bluff Wednesday evening.

DR. PAUL WILLIAMS, CAPE DIES IN ST. LOUIS HOSPITAL

Dr. Paul Williams, a physician widely known in Southeast Missouri, died Wednesday morning at St. Mary's hospital in St. Louis, where he had been a patient since July 31.

On Sunday Dr. Williams underwent an operation for an intestinal obstruction, but he failed to recover satisfactorily even after two blood transfusions had been administered. He died when his heart weakened early Wednesday.

He was 47 years old. He was forn in Kelso but for the last twenty-three years he had been a practicing physician in Cape Girardeau, specializing in the treatment of children. He was a member of the official staffs of the Southeast Missouri hospital and of St. Francis hospital.

Funeral services will be held this morning at the First Baptist church in Cape Girardeau. Dr. Williams is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Gladys Roberts, three children, and his mother, Mrs. Phil Williams.

FARMINGTON MAN HEAD UNDERTAKERS' GROUP

John Neidert of Farmington was elected president of the Southeast Missouri Funeral Directors' Association at a meeting held Wednesday in Charleston.

Scott Cotrell of Poplar Bluff was chosen vice-president and Lynn Benham of Bonne Terre, secretary. C. G. Strub, a research engineer for an undertakers' supplay company, spoke.

Sikeston men who attended the meeting were H. J. Welsh, Harvey Johnson, G. A. Dempster, and R. E. Patterson.

It was mighty nice of Chas. Burns to present the editor with some very fine melons, brought in during the week.

RECOVERY NOTES

Compiled by Dwight H. Brown, Secretary of State.

Seventy-three non-federal projects to cost $30,752,869 are now under construction in Missouri, according to W. A. Spann, acting state PWA director. Forty-nine non-federal projects have been completed in the state to date. They cost $2,081,677.

An increase of nearly 12 per cent in corporation profits is indicated in reports for the first half of 1935 as compared with the same period of 1934. Aggregate earnings of the 170 companies reporting were $358,977,470 this year against $320,974,330 for the first six months of last year.

The national administration has allotted Missouri $132,000 of the work relief funds for a survey of chronic diseases in this state. The survey will be made under the direction of the State Board of Health.

Declaring that economic conditions are improving, Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, predicts an increase of from one to two million persons in private employment during the next year.

Business activity during the week ending July 20 registered a marked upturn, according to the Corporation. Its index of business Administrative and Research trend during the week increased to 73.2 as against 66.7 in the previous week and 67.2 in the corresponding 1934 period.

Orders received by leading shoe companies for the month of July, 1935 were 10 per cent greater than during July of last year. The forthcoming autumn season is expected to be far ahead of the corresponding period of 1934 from a standpoint of production.

Elimination of at least sixty-five grade crossings in Missouri will be under way in the next month. Projects are now being prepared by the state highway department and will be announced within a few weeks. The federal government has tentatively allotted $13,000,000 to Missouri and Kansas for the elimination of dangerous crossings.

The Portland General Electric Company has announced a restoration of 1929 wages which will affect more than 1200 workers. In 1931 salaries were cut 8 per cent and in 1933 a further reduction of from 5 to 20 per cent was made. The 1933 reduction was restored last year.

Postmaster General James A. Farley is of the opinion that the depression will be ended and conditions in general in the United States will be in good shape by next summer. "We are further out of the depression right now than most people realize," Farley said.

Picnic Pickups

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

THE OLD-FASHIONED picnic was great fun for everyone but mother. She it was who planned and cooked and packed for hours before the starting time. A picnic in those days required as much work as a party. But there is no reason why it should today. The new style buffet picnic has so simplified preparations that now we can easily bundle up the family and go to the country every week. We have but to rifle the pantry shelves of their grand ready-to-use foods, hop in the car and be off. When it comes time to eat, place the foods on a paper table cloth and let every one serve himself. The family will enjoy making their own favorite snacks. Stock the picnic basket with such necessary wherewithal as sliced loaves of bread, packaged cheese and butter, jars of meat, mayonnaise, peanut butter, chili sauce, ketchup, jellies, jams, apple butter, pickles, relishes, olives, mustard, and a few old knives, forks and spoons for spreading. Then try some of these grand combinations. The weather is fine, let's pack up and be off:

Snappy Ham and Swiss Sandwich—Spread a slice of rye bread with butter, then with a thin layer of Prepared Brown Mustard. Top with a slice of boiled or baked ham, add a waferlike piece of Swiss cheese and spread with a bit of Chili Sauce. Place a second slice of buttered rye bread on top.

Baked Bean Club Sandwich—Spread one slice of bread with Oven Baked Beans (with Pork and Tomato Sauce), and press lightly with fork. Spread another slice of bread with Peanut Butter. Top the Beans with thin slices of onion and then tomato. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover with lettuce and top with the other slice of bread.

Sliced Cucumber Sandwich—Spread a slice of buttered bread thinly with Mayonnaise. Add thin slices of cucumber and sprinkle with a very little scraped onion and salt. Add a second slice of buttered bread.

Sandwich Spread and Peanut Butter Sandwich—Spread one slice of bread with Sandwich Spread and another slice with Peanut Butter. Combine the two.

Peanut Butter and India Relish Sandwich—Spread 1 slice of bread with Peanut Butter, then add a layer of India Relish. Top with a second slice of bread which has been spread with Mayonnaise.

Minced Ham and Mustard Sandwich—Spread a slice of bread with a thin layer of Prepared Brown or Yellow Mustard or Tomato Ketchup, then add a layer of minced ham or a slice of corned beef. Top with slices of Fresh Cucumber Pickle and second slice of bread.

Sandwich Spread and Egg Sandwich—Spread two slices of bread with Sandwich Spread. Place slices of hard cooked egg on one slice of bread and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with lettuce and second slice of bread.

Chicken and Dill Pickle Sandwich—Place thin slices of chicken on one slice of bread, then top with thin slices of Genuine Dill Pickle. Cover with second slice of bread.

Cheese and Jelly Sandwich—Spread a slice of bread with butter, then with Currant or Quince Jelly. Spread second slice of bread with cream cheese. Combine the two.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS FROM PARIS APPEAL

Restricting motors to a speed of not more than 25 miles an hour would solve the problem of preserving 35,000 lives a year on our highways. Restricting hunters to guns of breech-loading or muzzle-loader type would solve the problem of protecting and preserving game; this, too, without any decrease in the sport of hunting. Some of these days we may elect a legislature on these issues or write such laws into the constitution through the initiative.

We have a suggestion for the November, 1936, election. Instead of each party spending millions of dollars for oratory, advertising organization and agitation, why not save money, time and temper by submitting this simple proposition to the people: "All who are better off because of the Roosevelt policies will please stand and be counted while all who were better off under the Hoover policies will next stand and be counted." After all, what else should be considered?

Another bewildering thing about the Jew in Germany is that he has been deprived of every privilege except the privilege of leaving the country. All public offices are closed against Jewish men. All German schools are closed against Jewish children. A general boycot is being waged against Jewish places of business. No Jews are allowed to serve in army and navy. Just why Hitler is unwilling for them to leave the country is more than an outsider can understand, unless he recalls that the decline of Spain from the pinacle of national glory to a fifth place among nations is attributed by historians and economists to her folly in expelling Jews from the country.

Every community, it seems, has at least one man who constantly violates Rule 6. Rule 6 reads: "Don't take yourself too damn seriously".

The share-the-wealth slogan might be all right for campaign purposes in the autumn, winter and spring. As for the summer time, most of us would prefer a share-the-chigger policy, the idea being to shift to the idle rich those which pester those of us who are poor but honest.

The trouble is with the American people. The reason they are not excited and indignant about power interests using more than a million dollars of money belonging to stockholders for purchasing legislative influence at Washington is that the public has no conscience about such matters. There is a lot more indignation over the president's effort to make the rich pay more taxes than there is over the thievery, bribery and banditry incident to the activities of great power interests in the national capital.

The farm surplus problem most likely will be solved in chemical laboratories rather than by legislative enactments. Chemists already have discovered how to make many useful things of corn, wheat and beans including cheap wall boards from fodder, a substitute for metal automobile parts from beans; syrups and breakfast foods from grain. There is reason to believe that further commercial uses will be found for these and other crops that are grown on farms, and that the time will come when the problem of producing enough for all needs will be just as serious as the present problems incident to producing too much.

We do not get into the spirit of those who are shedding tears because public relief offices were closed and supplies cut off last week. The time has come for both Government and State to quit this business. That a lot of people will still have to be helped there is no question. This problem could be solved and a lot of abuses stopped by requiring each town to take care of any of its own people who might be in need leaving to county courts the task of taking care of those in rural districts. It would help, too, if the names of those on relief were published every three months. There would have been some eye-openers in such a list last winter.

But, fellow-Democrats, why worry about what will happen to Franklin D. Roosevelt next year? He will be running against a man most likely Herbert C. Hoover, who is opposed to old-age pensions, against guaranteed bank deposits, against all that is being done for the farming industry, against the policy of saving millions of homes from foreclosure, against higher taxes for millionaires, against jobs for the unemployed, against measures that have been taken against crooked financial and industrial interests, against relief for the destitute, and against all the other fine things that have been undertaken by the party in power. The campaign will resolve itself into a choice between a continuance of the Roosevelt policies or a return to the Hoover policies. And on such an issue Roosevelt probably will carry every state in the Union.

Major Lloyd Stark paid The Standard office a hurried visit Thursday forenoon while in Sikeston. He is making a hurried trip through Southeast Missouri to contact Democrats and Independents who he hopes to have with him in the coming state campaign. We firmly believe there will be no opposition to him for the governorship when the campaign opens in 1936. At this time there are few voters of any political affiliation that does not know Major Stark and to a man they know his special fitness for the position of Governor of Missouri. Southeast Missouri will be as a stonewall behind him.

We believe Sikeston is as peaceful and law abiding as any city of the size in the land and has no use for the old blue laws. It is a city that both young and old like to visit. You don't think for a minute that anyone would drive to Sikeston on Sunday if it wasn't for the fact they can get a bite to eat, a cold drink, to view our pretty homes and handsome store windows, and find an air-cooled picture show in which to rest and relax. We'll say not. All of this will mean nothing if the blue laws now on the statute books are enforced to the letter. Let's give and take. Many of us do not work very much on Sunday and some work very little at anytime. It is according to how we were raised as to how we live. The golden rule is the best way to live and let God judge as to where we shall go on judgment day.

DIES OF INJURIES FROM AUTO ACCIDENT JUNE 9

Mrs. Oscar E. Young died at her home near LaForge Wednesday afternoon of injuries which she suffered in an automobile accident on Highway 61, June 9.

In the accident, which happened two miles north of New Madrid, Mrs. Young's granddaughter, Marie Douglass, was killed and four other persons were hurt when a money and record vault fell on the Young car as it struck a large truck. Mrs. Young and her husband were wedged in the front seat of the automobile, which had been mashed by the safe.

Mrs. Young suffered a badly cut face and the loss of her right eye. Her nose was virtually removed from her face. he remained in the Southeast Missouri hospital at Cape Girardeau until July 1, when her condition was considered sufficiently satisfactory for her to be taken to her home a mile north of LaForge. She failed to recover, however, and died at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Young was born in Newton county, Arkansas, on March 10, 1895. She had been a resident of the LaForge community for a year and a half, moving there from Blytheville.

She is survived by her husband, Oscar E. Young, who was slightly injured in the accident; two sons, Ralph and William Young of the home; four daughters, Mrs. Eliza Williams, Culman, Ala.; Mrs. Irene Douglas, Blytheville, and Misses Pearl and Jewel Young of the home; a sister, Mrs. Ira Tennison, Swain, Ark.; and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. CHARGED WITH BURNING DIAMOND TAVERN MAY 11

Luther Thomas and Arnold (known as Alton) Cox were arrested here late Tuesday night on warrants charging them with setting fire to the Diamond Tavern early on the morning of May 11.

Thomas and Cox were arrested by Sheriff Sam Harris of New Madrid county, Chief Deputy Sheriff George Smart, also of New Madrid, and Night Marshal Gid Daniels. After a night in the New Madrid jail, Cox gained release on a bond of $3000. Thomas was still held Thursday. Both men are charged with arson.

In a telephone conversation Thursday, Sheriff Harris refused discuss the case.

From the time the Diamond Tavern was opened until two months before it was burned, Thomas was a partner of Paul Jones, operator of the place. Cox had no business connection with the tavern.

The tavern was burned to the ground by a fire which started in a tourist's bedroom. The entire structure and the building's equipment were consumed by the flames. The loss was only partly covered by insurance.

The shed where an engine generated electricity for the tavern was saved with fire extinguishers, and explosion of gasoline pumps in front of the tavern was prevented by Paul Jones, Jr., when he lowered fuel in them to underground storage tanks.

Last winter, an effort to burn the tavern was stopped when a man asked to set it afire told Mr. Jones of the plan. A new tavern was built this spring on the sight of the former structure.

DACE CAPTURES AUTO THIEVES ON SUSPICION

Trooper Melvin Dace caught two young automobile thieves Tuesday as he was on his way to Jefferson City to get a new Chevrolet patrol car.

Driving north on Highway 61, he noticed a 1929 Chevrolet sedan on the road south of Cape Girardeau, and becoming suspicious of the occupants, he stopped and questioned them. When they acted more strangely, Trooper Dace checked the car's license numbers, discovering the machine had been stolen in Tennessee. He placed the young men, Roy Dickerson, 17, and J. C. Dickerson, 25, both of Chattanooga, Tenn., in the Jackson jail and turned them over to federal goverment agents, who will prosecute them under the Dyer act.

Before he went to Jefferson City, Trooper Dace this week also arrested M. C. Blake, a negro south of town, and Virgil Debaun, of New Madrid, both for driving cars with borrowed licenses. When they were taken before Judge William S. Smith, the men were each fined $5 and costs. They agreed to buy new license.

On Monday Trooper Dace arrested Guy Lumkins on a charge of careless and reckless driving. Judge Joseph W. Myers dismissed the charge after Lumkins had paid a small sum for costs.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. . . Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

Missourians Activities in Washington

By Foust Roper.

WASHINGTON, Augs. 7—Random notes for a hot August day: Quite by chance, one day last winter, I discovered the private offices of the vice president in the Senate office building. His suite of rooms is next to the massive arches which form the entrance to the courtyard in the hollow square formed by the large structure.

The discovery was something of a shock, for during all my goings-around it had never occurred to me that official might have a set of rooms. I had always considered the office of vice-president as something one was elected to—not four walls, a desk and chair and a couple of telephones. Indeed, if someone had asked me how to get to the vice president's office, I probably would have told him the only way was to get nominated on a winning ticket.

Farmers would never like this city and its way of doing things. Most of the large stores here close on Saturdays. Such a practice is a God-send to the harried employes, of course, but to one who was reared in a "Saturday" town it seems, from a business viewpoint, the ultra-ult of darned foolishness.

Those of you who have not been in Washington in the last few months and who remember the blocks of crumby buildings which lined the streets northwest of the Capitol grounds, will find these eyesores removed when you return. They have already been rased and their former sites are being beautified to provide a neighborhood more in keeping with the magnificience of Capitol Hill.

Also, landscape work is constantly going forward on the Mall that wide swath of green which stretches across town from the Capitol to the Lincoln Memorial—with the Washington monument in its middle—and it in time will represent a studied pattern of trees and shrubbery.

This constant improvement and revamping is one of the most characteristic characteristics—August alliteration, as it were—of all government enterprises. All over town, this and that is constantly being changed and altered. And while costs are counted closely, the whole thing is done on such a scale as to give a casual observer the idea expense is the last and least consideration.

The Capital has gone in for "heavy" music enthusiastically this summer. Audiences of 10,000 have been attending the regular Sunday and Wednesday concerts of the National Symphony. The orchestra plays from a barge moored in the Potomac while listeners line the bank to the tune of such popular prices as 25c, 50 cents and $1. Like any great gathering, the musicales have a "knothole" gang, although this particular one is a superior sort of "knothole" gang which attends the concerts in canoes, thus avoiling the admission fee.

Even the most fleeting sketch of Washington as a city could not omit mention of its taxicabs, whose number is variously estimated from 400 to 600. Such competition has lowered fares to the point within the reach of practically all.

The city is divided into zones and one can go anywhere in the first zone for 20 cents (nearly everyone hands the driver a quarter, thus netting him a 5-cent tip). Such points as the Capitol, the Union Station, virually all the departments, the White House, all the downtown section and a considerable part of the residential are in this first area. Street car fare is a dime here, thus making cabs as cheap for two persons and cheaper than trolleys for more than two.

Bright Spots: The Shoreham hotel terrace, a decidedly Riviera atmosphere gained mainly from gay umbrellas. Swell music and a favorite summer rendezvous for political and social Washington . . . Mayflower hotel lounge, indoors but air cooled and one of the city's most delightful spots. Subdued lights, subdued music and subdued drinking make this one of the most pleasantly intimate of all the cocktail and supper dancing places. Typical of the Mayflower, which is to Washington as the Chase is to St. Louis and the Muehlebach is to K. C.—Maryland Club Gardens, over the district line in Maryland, outdoor dining with good music and a nice swimming pool. Chief attraction is the stand-up bar (vertical drinking is against the law in the District).

These, then, are but sides on the Washington scene, for although Washington has its own peculiar earmarks as a city, yet it is rarely considered as a metropolis. Washington is not a city, Washington is the government. Many individuals live here for years and never see the President, yet his presence and that of the entire machine of state is ever felt. Politics is heard in every restaurant, on every street corner. Government affairs are the warp and woof of the town.

Business goes on, traffic gets balled up, movies draw crowds and humans dash about the streets but somehow it all seems silly. All mortal pursuits seem foolish when enacted before such an inconceivably large background as that of the government—even though it itself is but the product of humans!

Thousands of black ants took refuge in the pants of Capt. Hugh Eames and Fireman Albert Maxwell of Reading, Mass., when the firemen unlimbered a chemical line to put out a fire in a big elm tree. The ants had been driven from their nest by the fire and they were driven from the firemen's pants only when a hose was turned on them back at the firehouse.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money.

SUMMER FLOWERS

Summer offers unlimited opportunities for unusual flower pictures.

ALTHOUGH June 21 is considered the first day of summer, it seems that, as far as the well-known public is concerned, Nature's traffic signal turns to "Go" on Decoration Day and the season is open for picnics, week-end trips, vacations and all activities classed under the general heading of "Outdoor Sports."

Heading the list of summer activities, however, should be "snapshooting" for picture taking with the modern day camera is one fascinating, healthful recreation that may be enjoyed by the young or old, and we might add—rich or poor for today cameras are available at prices to meet the capacity of any pocketbook and good pictures can be taken with all of them.

Another thing in favor of amateur photography as a pastime or hobby is the fact that it is not necessary to be an expert to get pleasing results, for modern-day cameras and film have been materially simplified for the snapshooter.

Late spring and summer offer great possibilities for flower and garden pictures, from the first appearance of the colorful crocus through the season to the arrival of the giant chrysanthemum in the fall.

The first rule of flower portraiture is: Avoid harsh lighting. By this, I mean that flowers seldom make good pictures under direct, midday sun. The light between ten and three is the summer is so intense that you get an over-abundance of chalk highlights and inky shadows. To catch the subtle beauty of the colorings in flowers, it is much better to work under the slanting rays of the sun in early morning or late afternoon.

You will doubtless want to take close-ups of some of the flowers. If your camera will not focus closer than ten feet, or thereabouts, get a portrait attachment (a simple, inexpensive lens that fits over the regular lens). With it you can get very close to your subjects, for striking and beautiful shots.

Here's another trick. To make a particular flower or plant stand out vividly, get a big sheet of gray cardboard and stand it up back of the flower, far enough away so that—if you are using direct sunlight—no shadows fall on it.

To catch the color values of flowers, you'll need to use the new supergensitive panchromatic film. "Panchromatic" means the film is capable of recording, in monochrome of course, a wide range of colors. Your photo dealer will help you select the best film for your special needs, and you will get snapshots to which you can point with pride and say, "I snapped that one."

SIKESTON GOLFERS PLAY THEIR FIRST TIGHT MATCH

Sikeston, 26—Dexter, 24

The local golfers had their first close call of the season Sunday, when they defeated the Dexter golfers by the close score of 26 to 24. The closeness of the match was due to the absence of some eight of the local golfers, who were away on vacation trips. C. C. Scott, Dr. T. C. McClure, Joe Matthews, Lyle Malone, D. L. Fisher, Harry Harty, Peg Mahew were absent Sunday. This group is usually able to score some 15 to 18 points in each match. Buddy Matthews, another one of the good shooters for the local club, failed to get matched Sunday, which cost the local club another two or three poinst.

O. Lumsden was the star of the match Sunday, with a dazzling 66 on the tough par 70 Dexter Course. This four strokes under par and set a new record for the Dexter course, the former record being a score of 67. Hester Alexander with 76 and George W. Kirk and Lyman Bowman with 78's, were the only other local golfers to break 80. H. J. Kirk had a score of 80. Geo. Sisler of Dexter with a 74 and Morris Sisler with 73 were the low scorers for Dexter.

Only one match remains on the lacal schedule in the Southeast Missouri League—that with Poplar Bluff on September 1. The locals have an open date Sunday. On August 18 and 25, the annual Southeast Missouri Amateur tournament will be played over the Poplar Bluff course. Sonny Lee, the present champion who is now located at Jefferson City, will be home to compete in this tournament and defend his championship. This will undoubtedly be the best tournament ever held, as the competition will be keener than ever before. Lumsden, 1933 champion, John Phillips of Poplar Bluff, Sonny Lee, Hester Alexander, George Sisler and Morris Sisler of Dexter, Jiggs Miles and V. Powell are the acknowledged "hot-shots" and will make the going plenty tough for all comers. Whichever one of these boys happens to be "right" and turns on the heat, will win this championship. Geo. W. Kirk, 1930 and 1931 winner of this championship and other Sikeston golfers will enter this tournament. Kirk won the Class A match last year at Cape Girardeau. As there will be four classes this year, any of the local players might have a chance to place in this tournament this year. A special prize is being offered this year for the best four man team entered in the Poplar Bluff match. The local club expects to take this four man team trophy this year. Lumsden, Alexander, Geo. Kirk, and either Bill Malone or C. C. Scott will probably represent the local club in this four man team event.

Scores of the match Sunday are as follows:

O. Lumsden, 66-3; M. Sisler, 73.

H. A. Alexander, 76; Geo. A. Sisler, 74-2.

G. W. Kirk, 78-2; L. Trammell 81.

L. Bowman, 78-1; F. Lane, 77-2.

H. J. Kirk, 80-3; H. Fritts, 91.

Bill Malone, 81; R. Sisler, 78-3.

Lee Bowman, 81-1; Jas. Buck, 81-1.

Billy Keith, 87-2; A. L. Thrower, 93.

L. Stallcup, 83-2; L. Seilert, 87-1.

H. Trowbridge, 96; G. Ulen, 86-3.

B. Forrester, 90; Max Clodfelter, 94-3.

Eddie Mathis, 97-1; Herbert Thrower, 94-2.

Ted Martin, 93-1; L. Leggett, 94-2.

F. M. Robbins, 94-1; F. Jean, 84-2

V. Rost, 91-3; H. Morgan, 98.

Wm. Mann, 104-2; M. Holdman, 109-1.

Fr. Flanagan, 91; Van Bibber, 80-3.

Charles Dickens' DAVID COPPERFIELD

ADAPTED BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX FROM THE METRO-GOLDWYN MAYER Picture

CHAPTER VIII

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE

As a child, David Copperfield, an orphan, had been sent away from home by his step-father. After some months of drudgery in a warehouse in London, relieved, however, by his friendship with the gay, irresponsible Micawbers, he had gone to live with his Aunt Betsy Trotwood. Then came school-days. Living at the Wickfield home, he and Agnes Wickfield became fast friends. Now, grown up and departing for London for a career as an author, Uriah Heep, Wickfield's clerk (whom David secretly distrusts) hands him a letter which causes him to express his intense amazement.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Dora

Glancing once more at the large scrawled signature, "Wilkins Micawber," David hastily sought out Agnes. He waved the letter excitedly. "Micawber! In Canterbury! I haven't seen him since I was a child! I'll soon be back, Agnes." And he rushed out.

At the Sun Inn, David quickly made his way to the Micawbers' rooms. There he was given an enthusiastic and vociferous welcome.

"Copperfield! Companion of my youth!" Micawber shook him by the shoulders affectionately.

"And dear Mrs. Micawber," David said, greeting her with a bear hug. "And what a happy surprise to see you here in Canterbury."

Mrs. Micawber explained. "Mr. Micawber and I and the children—there are still only four—have lately been visiting a branch of my family in Camden Town. I will not disguise from you that my family failed to entertain us with ardor. In fact, this is between ourselves, our reception may be described as cool."

David's mouth twitched. "I am sorry to hear it."

Micawber shook his head. "My dear," he said pleasantly, "my impression is that your family are, in the aggregate, impertinent snobs, and in detail, unmitigated ruffians."

"Wilkins, no," Mrs. Micawber replied in kindly tones, "you have never understood them and they have never understood you. They may be incapable of it. I can pity their misfortune."

Micawber displayed the advertising columns of the newspaper. "We have been investigating the merits of various prospective business enterprises here—and I am

"What a happy surprise to see you here in Canterbury," said David.

rather confident that something will turn up."

Mrs. Micawber threw up her head proudly. "I have a conviction that Mr. Micawber's manners peculiarly qualify him for a legal career."

"Hem! Really, my dear," Micawber said, throwing out his chest a bit. "You see, Copperfield, I am much impressed with your friend Heep. He is a young fellow who might become attorney-general. He has been good enough to make me a tentative offer of employment in a confidential capacity."

David could not contain his surprise. "Then something did turn up."

Micawber pursed his lips. "Perhaps the foundation of a new career. I have already some acquaintance with the law—as a defendant on civil process——"

"Would it be too much to hope that Mr. Micawber would eventually become a judge or chancellor?" Mrs. Micawber asked, preening a bit.

David concealed his amusement. "Well—he would be eligible. I wish you all success."

After a light supper which David could not find it in his heart to refuse, he left, vastly cheered and entertained by the renewal of his old friendship.

A week later he was met by his schoolboy chum, Steerforth, in London. He it was who opened up a new world to David, displaying all the sights and wonders of the city to his friend's eagerly inquiring eyes.

One evening they had taken a box at the Haymarket Theatre and Steerforth, in high good humor, was bowing to some friends at the other side of the theatre.

David stared at the stage then looked about him. "It's a gala evening, Steerforth. I've always wanted to see 'The Enchanted Bird.' I've heard—" He stopped short as his eyes were caught by a young woman of dazzling brunette beauty who, with her two maiden aunts, had entered the box next to his.

Steerforth, watching the stage, had not seen the newcomers. "Yes. But I can scarcely be excited, Davy, about an old bird of forty being shot by a bow and arrow—" He noticed David's inattentiveness. "Davy, that's the stage," he said, laughing.

David touched his arm. "I say, don't let her notice," he said in a low quivering voice, "—the next box—the most beautiful girl—oh, Steerforth, what heavenly curls."

Steerforth glanced at her out of the corner of his eye. "Yes, by Jove, she is pretty," he agreed, "and look at the two old dragons with her."

"How wonderful if I could speak to her," David said. Then he added despairingly, "Oh, but, of course, I never shall, unless something happened like the theatre catching fire."

"There's something much easier than that," Steerforth said decisively. "Trust an old hand." Then, watching carefully to see that he was unobserved, he stealthily tipped one of the old Aunt's opera glasses over into his box.

As he had expected, she started in dismay. "Oh dear! Oh dear! My glasses."

With a triumphant wink at David, Steerforth hid the glasses under his chair. Then he held forth his own pair. "Excuse me, Madame," he said with a courtly bow, "I will find them in the interval. Meanwhile, allow me. I have an excellent pair."

The Aunt inclined her head in a stiff bow and eyed him sharply. Then his handsome good looks and well-bred air seemed to have impressed her favorably. She smiled. "Thank you, sir. You're most obliging."

David and Dora were by this time exchanging surreptitious glances, and as Steerforth noted this, he once more spoke up. "Is not the ballet charming?"

"Yes, yes indeed," the old lady replied confusedly.

Steerforth smiled at her winningly. "I notice that your box is very badly placed. I'm afraid you can see but half the stage——"

"Yes—it is a little——"

"I wonder——" Steerforth stopped with just the proper amount of deferential hesitation. "I hardly dare to suggest—but our box is so large and has a better view—I wonder whether I might not tempt you and the other ladies to share it."

The two Aunts held a fluttering little tete-a-tete. Then with encouraging smiles at one another they moved into their neighbor's box, followed by their niece.

"Permit me, ma'am," Steerforth said, "this is Mr. Copperfield. My name is Steerforth."

"Our name is Spenlow," the Aunt replied with dignity. "This is my sister, Clarissa—and my niece, Dora."

After much bowing back and forth, Steerforth seated them skilfully manoeuvering David so that he was beside Dora.

Her eyes were intent on the stage and its central figure—the ballerina, in the headdress of a bird.

"I shall be riding often in the direction of Norwood, Miss Spenlow," David said, no longer able to contain himself.

Dora scarcely seemed to be hearing him. "Oh, yes indeed. How agreeable." At this point the ballerina floated towards the middle of the stage. "Oh, she's like a dove—we have such a beautiful dovecote at home."

David drew a little closer. "Miss Spenlow, how I should like to see the dovecote. May I not call? Would your aunts have any objection?"

Now the hunter appeared on the stage with his bow and arrow. The Corps de Ballet started back, frightened.

Dora clasped her hands together. "Can he be so cruel as to shoot her?"

"Sometimes love is cruel, Miss Spenlow," David said meaningly.

"Oh, do you think so?" Dora asked. She turned again. "Now he has drawn his bow——"

"Miss Spenlow," David said, quietly desperate for her notice.

But Dora's eyes continued to follow the ballerina, who had now flown toward the wings, and with a last graceful movement, disappeared.

Dora sank back in her chair. "She has escaped! She has escaped!" she cried joyfully.

David looked square into her face. "Please, Miss Spenlow, may I not call?"

And now she was fully conscious of him and aware, too, that she liked him very much. With her head tilted to one side, she replied, "Perhaps—if my aunts permit."

And in the weeks that followed the Aunts did permit. Soon Dora's dog, Jip, was following him about as if they had known each other for years. One enchanting day followed the other, hours spent gliding lazily in the canoe over the lake, or picnicking amidst the grass and flowers in the meadow. Then David captured the brilliance of Dora's starry eyes and placed it in the stones of a sparkling engagement ring.

He and Steerforth were standing on the beach one day, watching the rolling surf breaking on the shore beneath a glorious sunset. David had just finished writing "Dora" on the sand with a stick of driftwood.

Steerforth smiled. "The old sun must be amused with a constant spectacle of romantic lovers." He started along the beach. "Come along, Davy." He turned around puzzled, however, as he noticed David was not following.

And then his bewilderment increased, for David was staring off into the distance at something, his eyes wide and his face struggling with an emotion that Steerforth could not define.

(In this quiet, isolated spot, what has David seen that seems to perturb him so? Is it some new memory of the past that has risen up? Read tomorrow's exciting installment.)

NEW MADRID COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

The Barnes Ridge School Board have decided to tear down the old school building which is in a bad shape and build a new one 24 by 40 with modern window arrangement and a coal house attached to the rear. They will use the flowage money just received from the government and their building fund to purchase materials and are asking the WPA to supply the labor and some material.

The WPA applications consist of several pages of detailed information which must be filled in and filed with Charley Blanton, WPA District Administrator, who forwards them on to Washington for approval. We do not know how long it will take these applications to be approved and returned.

If any school district has a project in mind, the board should submit an application now. As we understand it, the local school is to furnish all or most of the materials and the WPA is to furnish relief labor and possibly some of the materials. We had hoped that small projects such as painting schools could be handled direct from the local WPA office but so far it seems that the above routine must be followed.

A four weeks' Adult Education Conference is now being held in Columbia in preparation for the Emergency Educational Program to be organized this winter. Each county is represented by a counselor who is to be trained to help in this work. Lawrence Wiseman represents New Madrid County and we expect him to be home soon to give us full details on the new set-up which we understand will be different from last year. Several unemployed teachers have already expressed their intention to file an application to teach some kind of class this winter. From the information we have, it seems that the applications will be certified by the county superintendent as to qualifications and will be checked on by the relief department as to need. Then the application will be forwarded to Jefferson City for approval. If approved, then the applicant may proceed with the class. Our difficulty last winter was in getting a class that would attend regularly.

The lowest grades on teachers' examination last week were made in Arithmetic, the grades ranging from 10 per cent to 95 per cent, the average being 40 per cent. Norman Pierce of Gideon made the highest grade. The problems were a little more difficult than usual, however most of them were taught in the seventh and eighth grades. The problems given on examination are as follows:

1 Define percentage, trade discount, exact interest. Find the exact interest on $35 for 27 days at 6 percent.

2 A man buys a stove listed at $48 with discounts of 25 per cent and 10 per cent. He gets an extra discount of 2 per cent for cash. How much will the stove cost if paid for at once.

3. Should the profit be determined on the selling price or on the cost price? Why?

4. Give the table for Dry Measure. For Square Measure. A man has a circular field 120 rods in diameter. How many acres in the field?

5. A swimming pool 90 feet long and 35 feet wide is filled with water to a depth of 6 feet. How many gallons of water are in the pool?

A man receives $564 annually from an investment of $10,000. If part of the investment yields 5 1-2 per cent and the rest 6 per cent, how much has he invested at each rate.

7. If you buy a 4 per cent bond at 94 and keep it until it matures will your investment earn more or less in all than 4 per cent a year? Why?

8. A monument casts a shadow of 45 feet when a post 8 feet casts a shadow of 2 feet. How hig is the monument?

9. Find the cost of 350 shares of stock, par value of $100, paying 6 per cent dividends if the rate on the investment it 4 4-5 per cent.

10. A cylinder is 10 feet long and its volume is 785.4 cubic feet. Find its diameter.

The grades on spelling ranged from 64 per cent to 74 per cent, half of the grades depending on the spelling of the following words: business, sandwich, occasion, recommendation, grammar, misspell, bonfire, eyelash, dungeon, majesty, forfeit, mosaic, ocher, laity, cameo, camouflage, plumbing, apish, shrewd, juggler, irony, parallel, source, treasury, noticeable.

Four of the men have been assigned to Troop B at Macon, six to Troop A at Kansas City, nine to Troop C at Kirkwood, five to Troop D at Springfield, five to Troop E at Sikeston, two to Troop F at Jefferson City, and three to Headquarters Troop at Jefferson City.

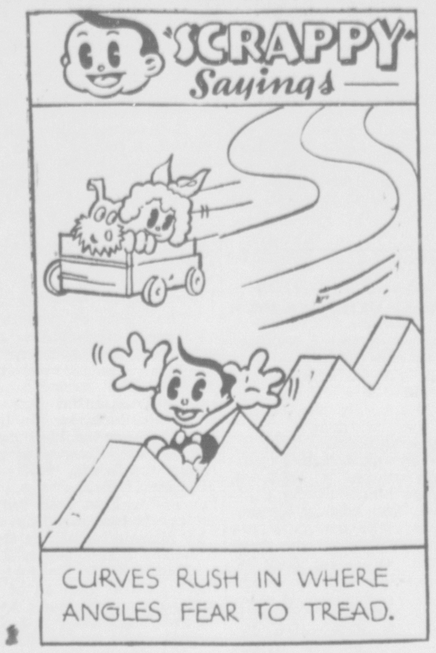

The new members of the patrol will report for duty on August 15.

EXPANSION OF STATE PRISON GETS UNDER WAY

The first step has been taken in the Missouri State Prison's big expansion program under the state's $13,000,000 building bond issue.

Stephen B. Hunter, director of the state penal board, recently announced the purchase of two lots adjoining the penitentiary in Jefferson City which will be used for expansion of facilities at the prison warehouse. Both of the lots are now occupied by houses which will be razed to make way for the new construction.

Purchase of the property, Director Hunter said, is the first step taken to improve and expand state penitentiary facilities.

TWO ESCAPE INJURY AS CAR TURNS OPER

Miss Marie Weekley and Hubert Carrington suffered slight body bruises Tuesday afternoon when the car in which they were riding turned completely over on a gravel road twelve miles north of here. The automobile a Plymouth coupe, was not badly damaged.

At the time of the accident, Miss Weekley and Mr. Carrington, both employes of the Electric Service Company, were on their way to a farm home to deliver a radio. Workmen had recently graded the road they were driving on but had left a steep ridge in the middle. When the car struck the ridge as it went down a short incline, it skidded and turned over, landing on its wheels in a ditch. After a team had pulled the automobile from the ditch, Miss Weekley and Mr. Carrington returned home.

WHEAT YIELD UNCERTAIN SURPLUS IS ANTICIPATED

Because of the prevalence of black rust disease in parts of the spring wheat belt, the amount of the country's wheat harvest is still uncertain, according to an August report of economic conditions issued by the National City Bank of New York.

Chicago grain house observers believe the outturn may fall from 50,000,000 to 70,000,000 bushels below the July 1 estimate, but if it does the crop will be in excess of domestic requirements for the first time in three years, the report states.

The total winter and spring wheat yield predicted on July 1 totals 731,000,000, compared with 497,000,000 last year and 529,000,000 the year before. "Except in years of abnormally heavy feeding of wheat to livestock, which is not to be expected this year," according to the report, "domestic requirements for all purposes are no more than 625,000,000 or 650,000,000 bushels." Adding to the 100,000,000 bushels of surplus is 160,000000 bushels representing the carryover of old wheat on July 1. Such a crop would make available for exports and end-season stocks, a surplus far above the 125,000,000 which is considered a normal reserve supply.

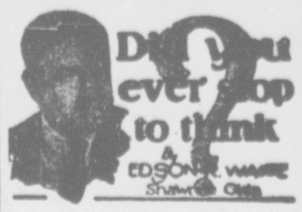

"Unless the rust damage comes up to the worst expectations, the AAA will obviously face a difficult problem, with a surplus to dispose of and the price in this country above the world price," the report states. "Our wheat is 25 to 30 cents too high to sell abroad in competition with other producers; and the AAA, whose objective is the "parity price', now about $1.07 on the farm, desires to keep the market on a domestic basis . . . With the supply increasing again above our own needs, the natural tendency is for the surplus to seek an outlet in world markets, and the chances are that government assistance will be needed if prices are to be maintained over the world level. The market is plainly counting upon such assistance as well as upon the crop damage."

PORTAGEVILLE REQUESTS PWA LOAN FOR PLANT

Portageville has applied for a PWA loan and grant for a proposed $12,725 aerator and filter plant, William M. Spann, acting state PWA director, announced Tuesday. Portageville has asked a loan of $7000 and a grant of $5725. Also included in a list of eleven Missouri cities which filed applications last week is one from Farmington, which seeks $33,996 for a $77,773 street improvement project.

New Rural Rehabilitation Assistant Selected

W. Earl Chapman has left his position as assistant district rural rehabilitation supervisor in charge of Scott and Mississippi counties. Next Month, Mr. Chapman plans to enroll for graduate work at the Missouri College of Agriculture. He has been succeeded here by Dewitt Jones, formerly rural rehabilitation supervisor of Butler county.

James E. Barrett, managing director of the Oklahoma Biltmore Hotel, in Oklahoma City, says:

"Hospitality makes popularity.

"This is the theory upon which the policy of a house is built and which has made hotel history during the past few years.

"The comfortable hospitality which every man seeks must include th e element of human friendliness, which is achieved only through personal contact.

"As no service is too small for a manager to do for his guest, so no request from a guest is too trivial to receive the attention of any member o f his staff to whom it may be made.

"No matter how elegant the surroundings, how complete the service, what price the room tariff, the guest remembers only whether he enjoyed his stay and forgets the rest."

The Battle of Armageddon

By Elder John B. Huffman

By special request, Elder John B. Huffman will explain all about the famous scriptural Battle of "Armageddon", Revelation 16:18, on the street corner in front of Sterling's store, where preaching and lecturing is done quite often, next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. He will explain the events preceding this very important battle, and the perilous times of this age. If you want to know about this very important subject, come out and hear it. All Bible students or those who want to learn Biblical things of this time of the end, need to hear it.

Elder Huffman may deliver a series of talks on the "Revelations" if there are sufficient number of people who make urgent request for it.

Remember, Saturday Afternoon, August 10, 1935.

The frankness of a hitch-hiker landed him at the nearest police station. As H. P. Baker of Boston waited for the change of a traffic light at Brookline avenue, the door of his automobile was thrown open and a man clad in a nightgown, bathrobe and bedroom slippers hopped in. "I'm escaping from the Psychopathis Hospital," he said calmly, but Baker was not so calm. He speeded straight to the nearest police station, and five husky policemen gave Denis L. Terterella a free ride right back to the hospital.

When a farmer near Carroll, Ohio, saw Hocking River sweep away his entire crop, he shut his gates and charged all sightseers admission to view his flooded farm. "I have to make hay some way," he explained.

Sim Trimmer of Rockbridge, caught in the same floor of the Hocking River, got a boat and rowed to his cows stranded on a hillside, milked them, and rowed back home with the milk. "Cows have to be milked, no matter how high the floods," he said.

ASKS RESTRAINING ORDER TO STOP CITY'S ACTION AGAINST UTILITIES FIRM

A petition requesting a restraining order to stop Sikeston from pressing its quo warranto suit against the Missouri Utilities Co., was filed Monday in the federal court at Cape Girardeau.

The action was taken by the Community Power & Light Company, which alleges it holds all first mortgage bonds of the utilities concern. The city is without constitutional right for its ouster suit, which was filed in the Scott county circuit court on July 12, the Community Power & Light contends.

Defendants named in the petition are the city of Sikeston, Dr. G. W. Presnell, other city officials and Prosecuting Attorney W. P. Wilkerson.

Since judges of the federal court's eastern Missouri division are now on vacations, it is not known if a hearing for a temporary writ will be held at once. If it is not, then the city will proceed with its suit against the utilities when the circuit court convenes Monday. If a writ were granted, the city's action would be delayed.

Fordyce, White, Mayme & Williams are attorneys for the Community Power & Light Company, Roger A. Bailey and Robert Dempster will represent the city.

Murder Trial Postponed

A trial for Virgil Crouch of Gray Ridge, who is charged with killing Jacob Walker November 4, has been continued in the Stoddard county circuit court until September 2. The continuance was asked by a defense attorney. Crouch allegedly shot and killed Walker after a quarrel during a card game at Gray Ridge. Crouch has been in jail at Bloomfield since the shooting. His trial was last set for next Monday.

ON RIGHTS OF A CITY

That Kennett has every right to believe that she will be successful in her effort to oust the Arkansas-Missouri Power Company from Kennett, when and if the U. S.Circuit Court of Appeals gives a decision, which has been overdue for more than a month, is strongly indicated in the following excerpt from an editorial which appeared in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch Sunday:

"The rights of cities and towns in their legal relations to grants and franchises are important. As electrical energy becomes an always greater factor in American life, it is essential that communities should know the law of the land in this troubled domain.

"The long drawn-out battle between California, Mo., and the Missouri Utilities Co., illustrate the point. This case has been in the courts for more than six years. The Missouri Utilities Co., had a franchise under which it furnished electricity to California. When the franchise expired in 1929, the community undertook to supply its own electricity. It built a municipal plant and asked the Missouri Utilities Co., to vacate the streets.

"The legal contest resulting from this forthright action has gone to and fro. As the battle progressed, it became more and more apparent that California was on very solid ground. She has the impressive decisions of the United States Supreme Court to support her. One of these decisions was in the case of the street railway company at Detroit, the other in the case of the water company at Denver. In both instances, the franchises under which the companies were operating had expired, and the Supreme Court upheld the right of the city to its streets. The law of the land holds plainly that all such communities can say, at the expiration of a franchise, whether or not they wish possession of their streets.

"This is just what Ben Ely, a Special Commissioner of the Missouri Supreme Court has said in case of California. He reasserts the right of the community to its streets, and suggests the Missouri Utilities Co., be given a year in which to vacate them. California does not want Missouri Utilities to continue the services formerly rendered. This is her right. It is the right of every city and town."—Kennett Democrat.

FARMER ACCIDENTIALLY KILLS SELF WITH GUN

Simon Blattel, a farmer of west of Kelso died Tuesday morning a short time after he had accidentally fired into his abdomen a bullet from a 12-gauge shotgun. He was about 60 years old.

At the time of the accident, Blattel was sitting on the steps of his farm home after returning from a field. Though friends were not certain, they thought the shotgun trigger must have caught on the side of the stairs as Blattel prepared to unload the weapon. He spoke only a few words in German to his wife before he died.

Coroner H. J. Welsh, who conducted an inquest at Kelso Tuesday, held Blattel's death accidental.

Early in the morning Blattel went to the field to pick cucumbers so that Mrs. Blattel could make pickles. As was his custom, he took the shotgun with him to fire at rabbits which inhabited the field. He was shot immediately after he had returned to his house.

OBJECTS TO CITY'S $50 CONTRIBUTION FOR LIONS CHORUS CONVENTION TRIP

Objecting to $50 which was contributed to the Lions club chorus fund for a trip to an international convention in Mexico City, Mexico, E. H. Smith sought to have the bill refused for payment when it was presented at a regular council meeting Monday nite.

When the July bills were considered, Mr. Smith moved that all statements except the $50 contribution be accepted. His motion was seconded by T. F. Rafferty, but was rejected when the three other councilmen present voted against it. Mr. Smith was the only board member who balloted against a motion accepting all bills, made after his was defeated.

Mr. Smith objected to donating $50 because the city is hard-pressed to pay its obligations, he said, and because he felt that the use of taxpayers' money was not proper. Other councilmen stated that the chorus had amply repaid the city by advertising it during many appearances in other towns.

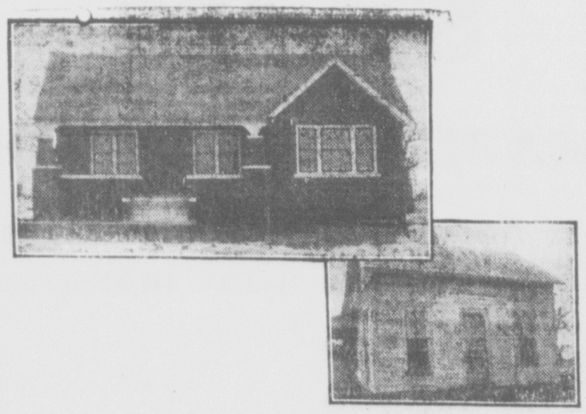

Aldermen Monday night decided to authorize the board of public works to install a hydrant beside the city hall for the use of visitors and a second one in Malone park for picnickers. After considering buying an electric water cooler for the district WPA offices, they voted to purchase an ice cooler instead for use during the remainder of the summer. An electric water cooler would cost $216.

A request by Pleas Malcolm that the city sponsor a clinic for grammar school children whose tonsils are infected was referred to the health committee. It will be remembered that a movement for a clinic was started last spring. Plans were abandoned, however, when it was learned that Red Cross officials had themselves tried to interest students in a clinic. Parents of children who needed attention refused to give consent for medical treatment.

Clarence Scott's request that waivers on the city liability policy excluding the acts of police and firemen be signed by Dr. G. W. Presnell was refused after a long discussion.

Members of the street and alley committee will consider a request made by George W. Kirk that the city close the ally which runs in Applegate's first addition by the homes of J. A. Hess and

Looks Like Houdini Magic Here

It wasn't the work of a magician—carpenters, painters and brick masons brought about this transformation.

The old house pictured was modernized inside and out. Three new rooms were added in front, the porch extended, brick veneering put on, a new roof and PRESTO—a 1935 model home.

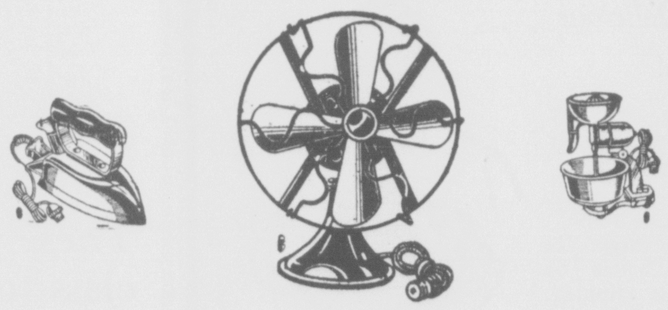

Advice of the home demonstration agent coupled with the Meredith Publishing Company (publishers of Successful Farming) aided this home owner to bring about the improvements planned. This newspaper and local concerns are joining in a national home modernization program. Read the messages below—and use the coupon for valuable ideas on home improvements.

ITCHELL' SALE OF STOCK TO WIFE HELD FRAUDULENT

Washington, August 7—A vic-ry was won by the government day in a Board of Tax Appeals ecision upholding major counts a $1,275,644 income tax suit gainst Charles E. Mitchell, form-chairman of the National City ank of New York.

It embraced a story of Mitchell's ecline in fortune from $30,000,-00 in 1929 to insolvency in 1932.

Bluntly, the tax court said the alleged sale" by Mitchell to his ife in 1929 of 18,300 shares of ational City Bank stock "was audulent with intent to evade xes". The banker had claimed loss of $2,872,305, but the board id "the alleged loss did not con-itute an allowable deduction om income."

Mitchell was upheld in his con-ntion that a $758,918 loss suf-red in 1930 on a sale of 8500 hares of Anaconda Copper min-g stock was deductible from net come for that year.

But his contention that $666,666 eceived in 1929 from the Nation-City's management fund did ot constitute taxable income was verruled and again the board id:

"The failure to report such pay-ent for taxation was fraudulent ith intent to evade tax."

Further, the board said Mit-hell's 1930 income tax return was raudulent" because he did not clude $54,900 on dividends on e bank stock "fraudulently" ld his wife in 1929.

Treasury officials estimated the ard decision validated approxi-ately $1,200,000 of the original ,275,644 claim against the New rk financier, for it held that his ry acquittal in a New York Dis-ct Court on criminal charges of x evasion "do not bar the im-sition of the penalty of 50 per nt of the deficiency."

The Treasury had claimed tax ficiencies of $728,709 for 1929 d $121,719 for 1930. The respec-ve 50 per cent penalties brought e total assessment to $1,275,644.

Mitchell resigned as head of the ational City Bank early in 1933. s stock transactions had been ought out previously in the nate Banking Committee's ck market investigation.

In neither of the two years cov-ed in the board's ruling did itchell pay any federal income x. The board said that for 1929 ter the deduction on the sale bank stock to his wife and the lure to include the $666,666 om the management fund, Mis-ell reported a net loss of $48,-9.

For 1930, the board said the nker's return showed a net in-me of $8552 and "he paid no come tax for that year."

The Tax Court's summary of cts said that on December 20, 29. Mitchell's "net worth" ap-oximated $30,000,000. It said at figure "declined until in or out February, 1931, he advised organ & Co. that he had ex-usted all his assets and was able to furnish any further col-eral." The board added:

"Thereafter, petitioner's finan-l condition became progressive-worse and on March 24, 1932, was insolvent by an amount excess of $3,000,000.

J. P. Morgan & Co., had given itchell a personal $12,000,000 edit at the time of the 1929 mar-t crash for stock purchases.

AJOR LLOYD STARK VISITS FRIENDS HERE

Major Lloyd C. Stark of Louisi-na, Mo., arrived here Wednes-evening to visit friends dur-the course of a brief tour of utheast Missouri.

Major Stark came here after pping in the Lead Belt towns, dericktown, Farmington, and pe Girardeau. On Thursday rning he went to Charleston, rning here before he left for lar Bluff, Kennett, Caruthers-e, New Madrid, and other ex-ne Southeast Missouri commu-es. He expects to complete his by tonight.

Throughout the state Major rk is gaining the favor of De-ratic leaders for the nomina-for governor in 1936. Inform-politicians here believe he find solid support in South-t Missouri and that he will bably have no opposition in his party when the primary elec-is held next summer.

When he was here to attend a rict Democratic rally last nth, Major Stark discovered nerous friends among promi-t Democrats of this district. trip this week was made to ew acquaintances with those nds and as well as to talk old ones.

Major Stark was well known in souri before supporters began tioning him as a possible can-didate for governor. OUTSTANDING EVENTS IN U. S. NAVAL HISTORY

Samoan Incident — April 1, 1899.—In 1899 native dsiturbances in the Samoan Islands forced the United States, England, and Germany to inteffere for the protection of their national interests. A native government was re-established under the general supervision of the three countries. In 1899 fresh trouble broke out which led to dispatching English and American naval vessels to Apia, Samoa. Admiral Albert Kautz was senior officer present on the U. S. S. Philadelphia, and one of the officers on the ship was Ensign T. T. Craven. On April 1, 1899 a joint landing force of Americans and English was ambushed by the natives. Lieutenant P. V. Lansdale, U. S. Navy, was shot and Ensign J. R. Monaghan gallantly died protecting his superior officer and covering the retreat of the landing force. Those killed in action were Lieutenant Lansdale, Ensign Monaghan, two United States enlisted men, Lieutenant A. H. Freedman, Royal Navy, and two British bluejackets. On April 3rd the ships shelled the island in reprisal. On December 2, 1899, England withdrew fram the islands, and they were divided between Germany and the United States. We received the islands of Tutuila and Manua. During the World War England captured the German possessions in these islands and holds them now.

PWA APPLICATION FOR SCHOOL MAY BE FILED

An application for a PWA grant and loan for construction of a new school building here may have been filed Thursday at the state PWA headquarters in St. Louis, R. E. Bailey, secretary of the board of education, said. Mr. Bailey mailed forms, plans, and estimates Wednesday to William B. Ittner, Incorporated, of St. Louis, architect for the school.

Two representatives of the state PWA office who visited here Wednesday spoke encouragingly about Sikeston's chances of securing a loan and grant. The architect's estimate for a two-story brick building was $40,000. The figure is probably higher, however, than the cost of constructing the building. Under a new ruling labor for PWA projects may be paid wages prevailing in individual communities instead of on a scale set down by the government. The wages formerly in effect were higher than those paid here.

The board of education asks a grant of 45 per cent of the total cost and a loan of 55 per cent. The community's share will be paid with money awarded the board in a $20,000 preference claim against the Sikeston Trust Company.

The building will be erected on a lot immediately north of the high school, owned by the board for many years. It will have eight classrooms, restrooms, and two offices.

NEW STORE FRONTS ATTRACT CUSTOMERS

Money Spent on Modernizating Under New Liberal Terms May Prove to Be Wise Investment

Modernization may prove to be the way to take "For Rent" signs off vacant store and shop buildings. No progressive tenant wants an old, dilapidated structure. Buildings in a good location and in good condition , however, usually rent without delay.

You can get loans now from your local bank or other financial institution to modernize stores, shops, and other types of business property. The National Housing Act has made money available to property owners for this purpose on the most reasonable terms ever offered.

You can borrow as much as $2,000 and pay it back monthly over a period up to 5 years (at the discretion of the financial institution).

Modernizing a store front is not expensive if you use some of the new surfacing materials. They can be easily applied and add greatly to the outward appearance. Money wisely spent in this way frequently means the difference between no income at all and a substantial profit.

Here are some pointers to remember in modernizing stores or shops: Provide maximum window display space flush with the building line; a wide entrance door, preferably opening in; simple exterior lines; space above the entrance for a large sign; and adequate lighting and ventilation for show windows.

Over the capitol building at Washington there are four flags staffs; the flags over the east and west entrances fly night and day and hauled down only when the Congress adjourns. These flags are the only ones in the United States which by right are permitted to fly after sundown. The custodian of the flags states that since this Congress has been in session wind and rain have worn out seven sets of flags.

Admiral Byrd took ice-boxes with him to the South Pole regions to keep his provisions from freezing too solid.

In 1775, Navy enlisted men received $80 per year for their service.

The Japanese Navy's 1,900 tons of the latest word in submarine building, was recently launched at the Kure Navy Base. It is the seventh and last of a class of far-cruising submarines, said to be capable of crossing the Pacific and returning without refueling.

John Paul Jones was an admiral in the Rusian Navy, knighted by Catherine of Russia, given a commission by Sweden, pensioned by France, buried in Paris and reinterred in Annapolis, Md., U. S. A.

The latest thing in modern submarines, the U. S. S. Shark, shows a long trail of progress in submarine construction followed since John Phillip Holland, the Irish inventor, designed and built the first successfully operated U. S. submarine 35 years ago.

Latest Household Hints Illustrated

Timely Pictures and articles for the thousands of women who are following the popular trend to electric cookery.

Cooking miracles are a common occurrence in modern kitchens since the electric range came into popular favor. Here is one of the "miracles"—perfectly baked cream puffs started in a "cold oven." This is "one step" baking and time saving at its best. The controlled moisture and even heat in the Hotpoint range of the electric oven make perfect cream puffs a certainty every time. Made this modern way, cream puffs are always feathery light, golden brown and unbelievably delicious. Electric range sales have shown a sharp upturn and cooking miracles like this are said to be one of the reasons.

Rapidly increasing use of the modern electric range is resulting in a new, and easier method of entertaining. The modern hostess puts sandwiches on the broiler rack of the electric oven, plugs in the percolator, sets the "chef's brain" (automatic timer clock) and sits down to play bridge with her guests. At the appointed time she goes to the kitchen and takes hot "eat—me—quick" sandwiches from the oven and with perfectly percolated coffee serves a hot luncheon. The automatic electric range watches the cooking while she plays.

One miracle of the modern electric range now occupying the spotlight of the household appliance field, is the elimination of the double boiler in cooking cereals, sauces, rarebits, etc. The evenly measured heat of electric cookery permits cooking of such foods in ordinary saucepans or skillets.

"Remote Control" of cooking comes to the kitchen. Modern electric ranges now sweeping into popular favor everywhere are equipped with automatic timer clocks. Women put their meals in the oven, set the timer clock and go about their other work or play. The "Chef's brain" turns the oven on at the proper time; turns it off when the food is cooked.

The total cost of the projects were estimated at $227,914.

Murray said he understood the projects would be passed on at Washington next Monday.

Sikeston, laying water main, $9585 total cost, $5320 federal cost.

St. Louis, landscaping sanitarium grounds, $56,572 total cost. $55,926 federal cost; improvement nursery, $12,350 total cost, $7983 federal cost; treating trees along streets and parks, $78,585 total cost, $62,610 federal cost; widening Twelfth street, $10,726 total cost, $19,886 federal cost.

Two Kansas City projects previously had been sent to Washington. One was for grading Thirty-ninth street at total cost of $89,216 of which federal cost was $72,080, and the other was subgrading and paving Gregory boulevard at total cost of $300,672 of which federal cost was $275,984.

The grand total of all 11 projects from Missouri that have been approved by Murray is $617,802 of which the WPA will contribute $528,968 if all projects are approved in Washington.

Christ healed the sick, fed the hungry and raised the dead. That was away back before Heck was a pup. Abraham Lincoln was a poor man, sympathized with the oppressed, and freed the negroes. He was the first and only president that came from the grass roots. All others were nabobs, aristocrats, and in sympathy with Big Business, believing the poor could take care of themselves. Things came to such a pass in this country that a political uprising placed in the white house a man who was raised with a silver spoon in his mouth but endowed with a heart that beat for the downtrodden. He gathered about him the greatest aggregation of brains ever scrambled in Washington and out of this omelet came all the alphabet in a scrambled fashion and from these alphabets sprang the many projects that gave employment to many thruout the land, gave financial aid to the farmer, furnished the money to feed the hungry, and still we hear criticism of his policies from many who benefitted thereby. If God ever put into the heart of man the love of his fellow countryman, then He did that very thing for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The drydock at the Navy Yard, Olongapo, P. I., was towed there from Chesapeake Bay, a distance of 13,000 miles. The trip took 150 days and nine hours.

Compass needles are attracted by either the North or South magnetic poles. The North magnetic pole lies some 800 miles away from the true or North geographic pole, and the South magnetic pole is located in Victoria Land in Antartica and is approximately a like distance from the South Geographic pole.

PARISIAN CHORUS GIRLS REACH END OF SUBTLE NUDITY

PARIS—The once daring costume of Parisian chorus girls is being discarded here as an old-fashioned relic of the gay '90s.

Sheer fig leaves, humming bird wings and tiny bouquets of flowers are glued to the body now—much to the delectation of the baldheaded row.

The new music-hall attire or rather lack of it, attains a 99-100 per cent nudity which is just enough to meet the legal requirements of modesty on the Paris stage.

Entirely naked except for a fig leaf or a bird wing, a chorus girl of the French capital merely needs to walk before the footlights and she is assured a round of masculine applause. When she dances, the silence becomes tense, for there is always the possibility that the glue may melt away and the leaf may flutter to the ground or the wing take sudden flight.

Directors of Paris music halls, however, contend that the new garb is more aesthetic than the most bespangled and artistic adornment once worn. They point out that this innovation does not interfere with the natural lines and curves of the feminine body or contrast harshly with the whiteness of a naked body.

More harmonious scenic effects, it is argued, can be obtained with this new kind of loin adornment. One of the best illustrations of this is a paradisical garden tableau at the Folies-Bergere, in which unclothed sirens, disporting themselves inelectrically illuminated bouquets of flowers, attempt to revive a half-drowned beachcomber who has been washed ashore on an island of topical splendor.

Although nakedness is more prevalent than ever in the Paris music halls, there is a definite tendency to be more subtle in the presentation of beauty.

'Make Your Pictures Say Something'

Always have your subjects doing something

HUNDREDS of thousands of juvenile story books are sold every year and the ones we loved most in our younger years were those translated into pictures, because they had a human appeal. All through our lives we retain our interest in picture stories. It is this appeal that takes us to the movies and causes us to look through the pages of daily newspapers and magazines for pictures that tell stories of human activities.

But when it comes to snapshots, so many seem to forget how much they enjoy looking at story-telling pictures. They pick up their cameras and just shoot, seemingly satisfied to get any pictures at all, as it was in the old days of, "You Press the Button and We Do the Rest." There is a better way to take pictures.

If you want to enjoy some good laughs take a look at some of the pictures in the old family album or some of the snapshots you took several years ago. There you will probably find some perfect examples of record pictures—pictures of Uncle Charlie or Aunt Minnie in a stiff pose against the trunk of a tree or with an unattractive garage door as a background. Don't take pictures of your friends just standing looking at the camera. Have them lighting a cigarette, reading, or doing something to season the picture with that human interest touch that should be in every film you expose.

You go out on a picnic with your friends. What do you do? The chances are that you line up the gang, you snap the camera and again have just another picture when it would be just as easy to have the crowd enjoying the lunch and perhaps one member busily engaged in the act of "exterminating" a luscious ear of corn or doing a "boarding house reach" for the potato salad.

If you were making movies, would you take foot after foot of film with your actors doing nothing? Of course not, and it isn't a bad idea to think of your "still" camera as a movie camera filming a drama. Get action and meaning. This means that you should think before you shoot.

The two pictures above really "say something." Jack's picture with his bicycle tells of "chain trouble" and a delay in meeting the gang at the vacant lot for a game of baseball, while Billie is probably telling his young girl friend about his great adventures as a sailor; of pirate's gold and Pieces of Eight.

In case you have never given much thought to this before, just take a look through a newspaper or magazine and notice which please you more—pictures of people merely looking at the camera or pictures of people doing something humanly interesting and significant. Chances are that the story-telling pictures will be your choice, and you'll make up your mind that hereafter that's the kind you'll aim to take. Good luck!

$17,000 HIDDEN IN MATTRESS IS LOST IN WIFE'S BONFIRE

ALGOOD, TENN., August 5—Aral Bilbrey's wife made his bed. She made it out of nice clean straw—and it cost Bilbrey just $17,000.

The farmer was away from home when his wife decided to fill her mattresses or ticks with new straw. She had to empty the old straw, so she built a bonfire.

Then Bilbrey came home and his wife remembered. Her husband was thrifty. He had accumulated his wealth in currency, stocks, notes and the like and hidden these away in a mattress. They all went up in smoke.

Ways and Means With Ice Cream

A royal way to serve ice cream is "Apricots Parisienne". You poach halved apricots in their syrup, flavor with vanilla, cool and drain. When ready to serve, press the halves on either side of a ball of vanilla ice cream and set upon macaroons. Then cover with flavored whipped cream and sprinkle with chopped filberts.

Coupe Palm Beach is another Ritzy arrangement of ice cream. A scoop of vanilla ice cream is put in a coupe glass. Around it are placed melon balls, ripe strawberries and small sections of orange, all of which have been marinated in honey. One or two spoonsful of honey are poured over the ice cream.

A "Black and White" sundae is interesting. It is served in parfait glasses and consists of alternate spoonsful of chocolate and vanilla ice cream with chopped nut meats between. Pour in fudge sauce and top with whipped cream.

Sauce on ice cream or any dessert serves the three-fold purpose of moistening the dish, adding flavor and making the servings go farther.

A simple ice cream, such as vanila, is lovelier and more delectable if mantled in a luscious fruit, fudge or nut sauce or contrasting color and texture. Most ice creams are better for some such complement or "escort", but to most people vanilla almost always demands one!

A rich frozen dessert, such as a mousse or parfait, does not need any sauce or adornment.

One of the easiest sauces for plain vanilla ice cream is made by melting a chocolate-and-nut candy bar slowly over low heat or hot water, and adding one or two spoonsful of cream.

Almost any fruit jelly melted and flavored or thickened a little makes a delicious sauce for ice cream. A syrup of stewed cherries added to an equal quantity of red currant jelly which has been melted, makes a delightful cherry sauce.

Ice cream may be varied interestingly by adding freshly grated cocoanut or peanut brittle to the ice cream mixture during the freezing process. This of course, is when you are making your ice cream at home in the automatic refrigerator.

It is comparatively simple to make a three-flavored brick ice cream in the freezing trays of your electric refrigerator. This is the way to do it. Use three flavors of ice cream or mousse, or two kinds of ice cream and a water ice. Fill your freezing tray one-third full of the first flavored ice cream, let it partially harden, and add the ice or second ice cream. When this is firm, fill the tray with the third mixture and freeze. When ready to serve, remove from the tray and slice.

Pineapple Kelsherb

1 can crushed pineapple (No. 2 size.)
1 1-2 cups confectioners sugar
Pinch of salt
1 quart buttermilk.

Add sugar, salt and buttermiik to well drained pineapple. Pour in Kelvinator tray and freeze. Stirring in tray during freezing improves texture. One tablespoonful vanilla may be added if desired. Makes 1 1-4 quarts.

Banana Sponge

2 small or 1 large banana.
1 tablespoon lemon juice
4 tablespoons confectioners sugar.
2 egg whites.

Mash banana through coarse wire strainer, add lemon juice. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in sugar. Combine the two mixtures and blend lightly but thoroughly. Place in individual paper cups and freeze in Refrigerator tray. Serves four to six.
